Mr. Rebell, Principal

The Number One Spartan

Administering and supervising, Mr. Rebell took great pride in Thomas Jefferson's students and faculty.

During athletic activities, assemblies, and dances, he served as an interested and enthusiastic leader. While at Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Rebell helped the students mature and adapt to a six-year program, always offering his advice when anyone had a problem. Through his willingness to help the students he became our number one Spartan . . .

. . . in April Mr. Rebell retired as principal at Thomas Jefferson but continued his career in education by serving on the newly-organized State Board of Vocational Education.

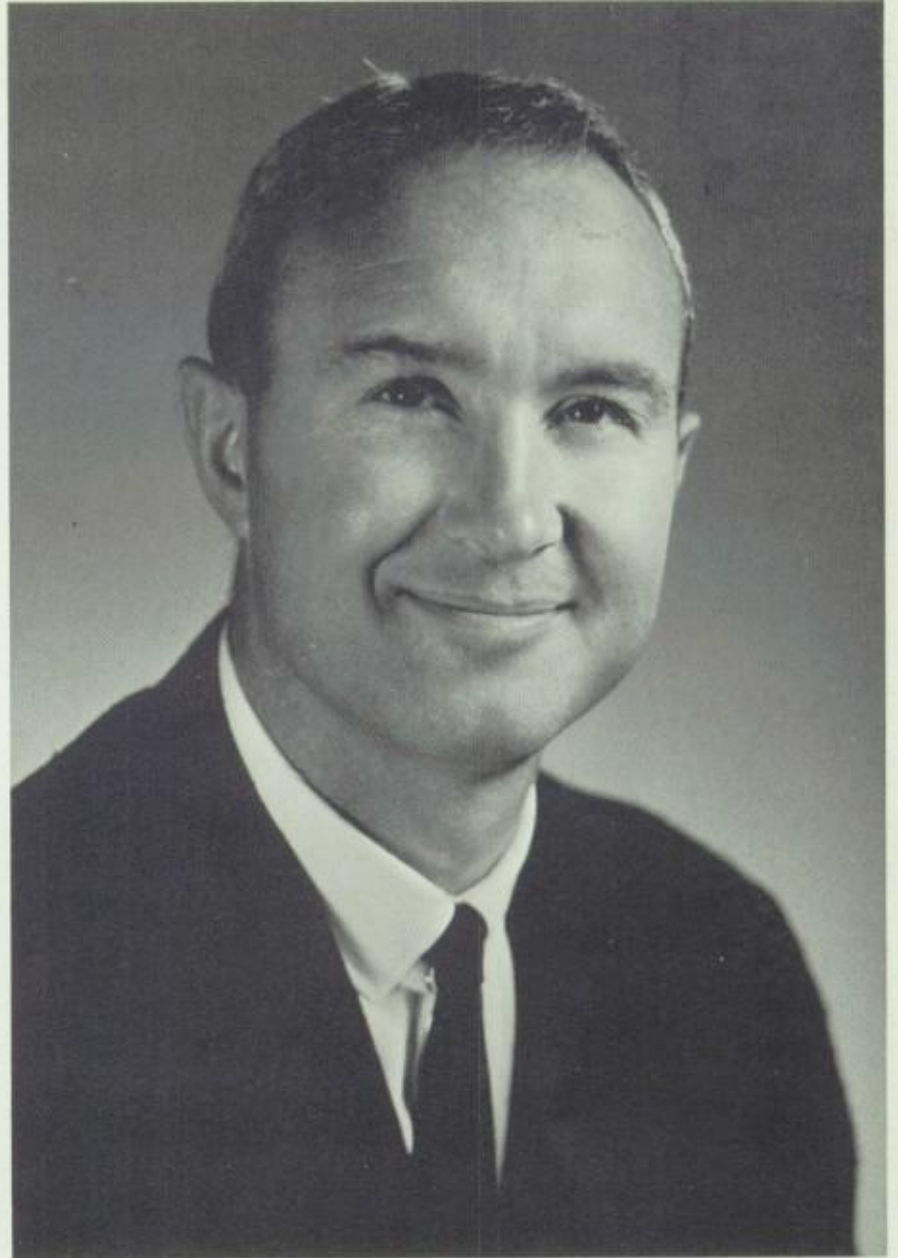

Mr. Rebell looks with pride upon his students.

Administrators Set Example

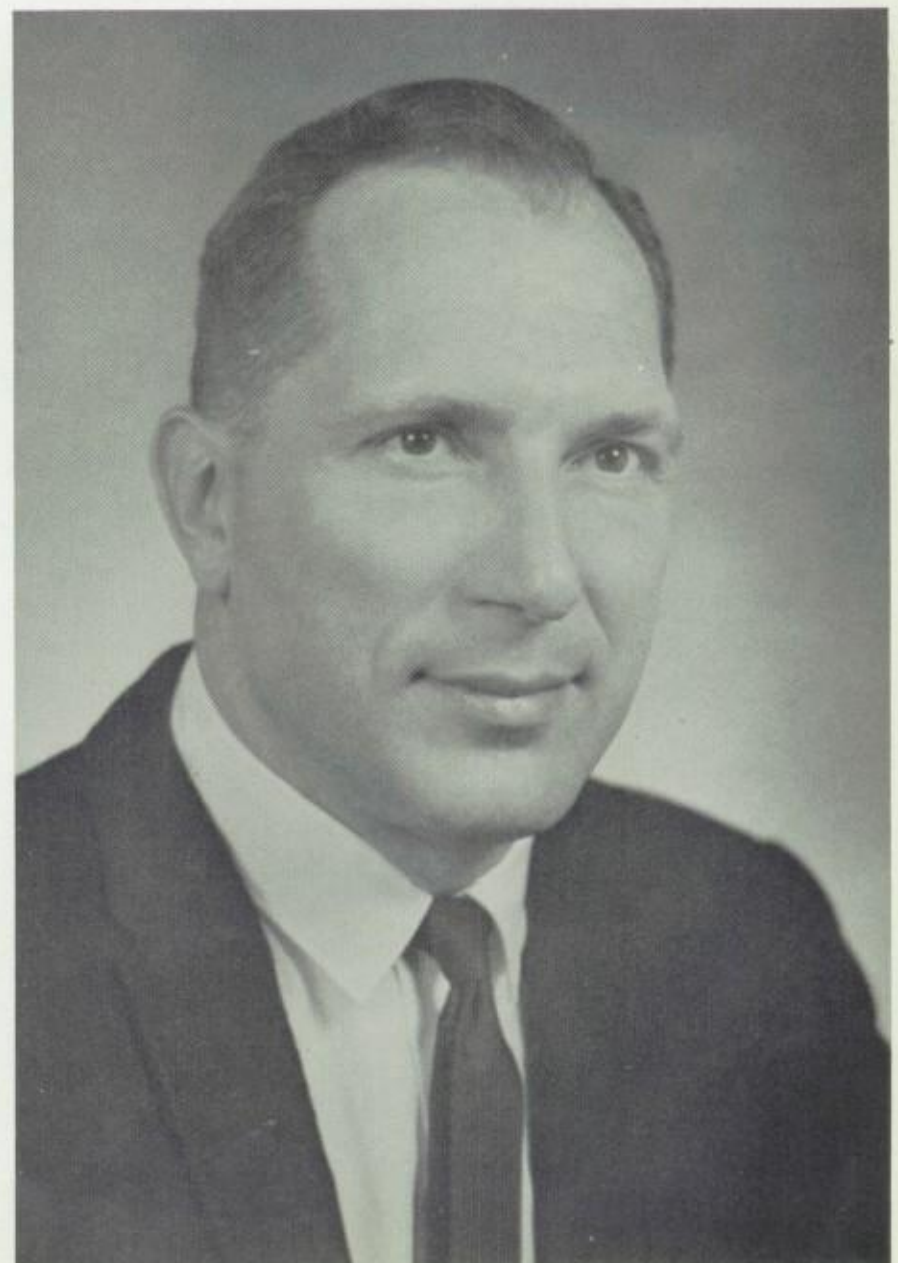

The administrators at Thomas Jefferson taught students the ways in which good character is developed. They helped the students with personal problems, as well as those dealing with school. By their examples, encouragement and guidance, the students of Thomas Jefferson learned to be mature and better individuals.

Certain Jobs Require Special Attention

Without the help of the IBM machines, audio-visual materials, and medical assistance, the school would fail to function properly. The people to whom these responsibilities fall work long hours to see that each student took the full advantage of his high school education.

Teaching the elements of grammar was not the sole purpose of Thomas Jefferson's English department. The English faculty strived to prepare their students for the future by developing logical, clear expression in speaking and writing. Students in the literature classes learned to appreciate the works of great literary figures from the past and present. Speed-reading and speech were also offered by the department to aid the student in school and community life.

History — A Legacy, A Heritage

One of the major objectives of the social studies department was to acquaint the students with the factors that have created his environment. Students were taught the relationship between past civilizations and the world of today. Instilled in each student was a pride in his American heritage and a respect for alien cultures and traditions.

Skills For Potential Careers

In the business education department students were taught business skills and basic business procedures. These courses were designed to assist students in finding employment before and after high school graduation. Such classes as shorthand, typing, and office practice were offered. These skills were beneficial not only to the student who plans for a business career, but were also helpful in personal use.

Math And Science

Mr. Smith is only one example of the faculty devoting extra hours to the students.

Through the use of new teaching techniques and methods, the math department at Thomas Jefferson severed the ties with traditional math and kept in step with the advancement of education. The math teachers helped their students discover that math is not a mystifying world of numbers and symbols, but a precise method of reasoning.

Last year she was a Jr. class representative and was further honored with a title of Jr. Aristocrat Princess. An Indispensable Link Fulfillment of the aims of the Jr. High are embodied in their prominent council. Those elected as representatives have endeavored to instill spirit and participation in the Jr. High activities. Being an indispensable link in the student government, the Council's ideas and contributions have greatly availed the entire school. Promoting the United Fund assembly and drive, and conducting the seventh grade elections are just a few of their accomplishments. They also hold individual class parties and direct the totally unique idea of Teacher Appreciation Day. Many of the school's activities would not be a success without the incomparable, energetic, and diligent workers on this Council.

Dave Condit, president, had this to say: "Naturally we're having a rough time getting started, but by next year we should have achieved the ultimate in student government." Prefecting did much to promote school spirit, and student respect.

Honor Society: Scholarly

Society members listen to Rev. Stephen McShane during their annual assembly.

Like whewwww! I made it! Like, it was nothin' even!

The 1966 members of the National Honor Society were selected on the basis of a 3.0 average. After the qualified seniors accepted letters of invitation, the faculty voted on membership. The new members were invited to the Society's Alumni Tea and presented to the student body in an assembly highlighted by Reverend Stephen McShane.

Fencers Get The Point

Mr. Beal explains the finer points of an Italian foil to Fencing Club officers: Kevin Reynolds, Sec.; Mark Wymore, ICC Rep.; and Steve Tilsley, Pres.

Every Friday afternoon in the Spartan gym, the skillful sword play of fencing was practiced. The fencers do not use the classical sport as a way to settle their quarrels as was done long ago by Frenchmen and Italians. Mr. Barry Beal, this year's sponsor, helped the fencers learn and use the proper ways to handle the foil. No funny business was tolerated.

Staying after meetings to exchange picks and strums was only part of the fun of being in Folksong Club. Such speakers as Harry Tuft from the Folklore Center and the So-Unreal Group added variety to the meetings. A new library was initiated, consisting of records and folksong books to help club members with chords and lyrics. A successful year was highlighted by the annual all-school hootenanny.

Mrs. Jarrett, Tadpole Sponsor, updates some of the club records.

Monday afternoons the fifty members of Tadpoles swam one-quarter of a mile for physical fitness. Tadpole members and girls in swim clubs from other high schools held swimming and diving meets throughout the year. In February the members enjoyed a pot-luck dinner with the boys' swim team.

Before each meeting, Tadpoles gather at the side of the pool for a short business session.

Impressions gained from music and combined with coordination of mind and body form the basis of dancing. The members of Modern Dance Club strived to master this concept and apply it to individual creativity. Highlighting the year was the presentation of a routine in the all-school show. A deeper appreciation of both dance and music was achieved by the members.

Physical fitness is an important part of every girls' daily life.

Promoting interest and participation in girls' sports was the main function of Girls' Sports Club. The girls developed good sportsmanship and an interest in outdoor activity. Tournaments were often conducted. A Father-Daughter Banquet was held along with the Sport Club-Faculty Volleyball Game.

Club sponsor, Miss Gater, encouraged the girls to improve and achieve individually and as teams.

IRC Heatedly Debates Cold War

Teenagers are often poorly informed concerning the problems of today's complex world. The International Relations Club did much to bridge the world-wide gap of miles and customs. Through conferences and meetings where Foreign Aid and international policies were discussed, and a mock United Nations, members of IRC tore down prejudices and developed their own understandings.

The Teenage Republicans offered young people a role in partisan politics and provided an opportunity for political expression. During the year the club collected, analyzed, and discussed information concerning political affairs. They actively participated in the TARS State Convention, conducted a Viet Nam policy debate with the Young Dems, held a ski trip, visited the State Legislature, and heard many stimulating speakers.

Music Students . . .

Concert Choir members Cathie Thrash, Jan Timmons, and John Humphrey, representatives of three high school classes, are shown with Mr. McGregor, director.

Vocal and dramatic abilities were two aspects of all Thomas Jefferson's choirs. From the seventh and eighth grade Modern Choir, to Freshman Choir, Girls' Ensemble, and Concert Choir, perfection in diction, tone, and pitch was constantly striven for. The endless vocal exercises paid off for some choir members as they performed in groups on television and civic functions.

Students interested in instrumental performance were carefully trained by a progression of achievement through training, advanced, and concert band or orchestra. The concert band participated in parades; interested members composed the football band. Concert orchestra's activities were highlighted by a performance for a medical convention. Both instrumental groups sent several members to All-State and All-City Concerts.

Journal Meets Pressing Deadlines

Journal members have truly fulfilled their motto, "To be, rather than to seem." They have been sincerely interested in the school—the activities were well covered, the sports comprehensively written. But staff members were more to T.J. than reporters; they were analysts, catalysts, and critics.

Journal interest lay not only in literary directions; the staff's star basketball team, the "Pol-lacks," was a real winner. The newspaper's assembly is always a highlight. Students at T.J. were proud to recognize that the newspaper staff was actively interested—not "seemingly" critical—in the activities of a school's development toward distinction.

Cutlines, Headlines, Deadlines . . .

It takes people and pencils, copy and coffee, pictures and paper, planning and patience to compose a good yearbook—and the Aristocrat Staff has always strived to present T.J. with "Denver's finest yearbook." From the title page to the index the yearbook has been a book by and for the students—it was a year-long record of memories. The staff aimed to please the student body because the success or failure of an annual depended entirely on the book's reception. Thanks to Mr. Mason, sponsor, and a patient publisher, yearbook members traditionally gave Thomas Jefferson a book worthy of possession, pride, and praise.

'Gridiron A-Go-Go' Send

On October 23 the T.J. Spartans galloped into Homecoming '65. After herding West's Cowboys across the gridiron prairie to a 53-0 win, past and present Spartans celebrated by rocking to the Daniels or swaying to the Mort Mann Quartet. Other highlights of the weekend ranged from class float judgment and precision pep club drill to the coronation of the queen.

Go-Go Girls

Queen candidates Kaye Burr, Cindy Baughman, and Mary Lou Gemmill are presented during half-time of the homecoming game by Art Hiester, Bob Therrell, and Mike Hagan.

With her usual winning smile, Kaye Burr was the reigning "go-go girl" at the homecoming dance, "Gridiron A-Go-Go." The highlight of the evening was the traditional coronation kiss, performed four consecutive times not to co-captain Ron McRae's dislike, thanks to a faulty camera. Kaye's court consisted of seniors Cindy Baughman and Mary Lou Gemmill.

In a crepe-paper gym and a float-infested lunchroom, victorious Spartans danced to two bands for the first time in TJ's history. Popular songs from the hit parade were played by the Daniels in the gym, and "old-fashioned" but romantic tunes were provided in the lunchroom by the Mort Mann Quartet.

Halloween Spells Fun

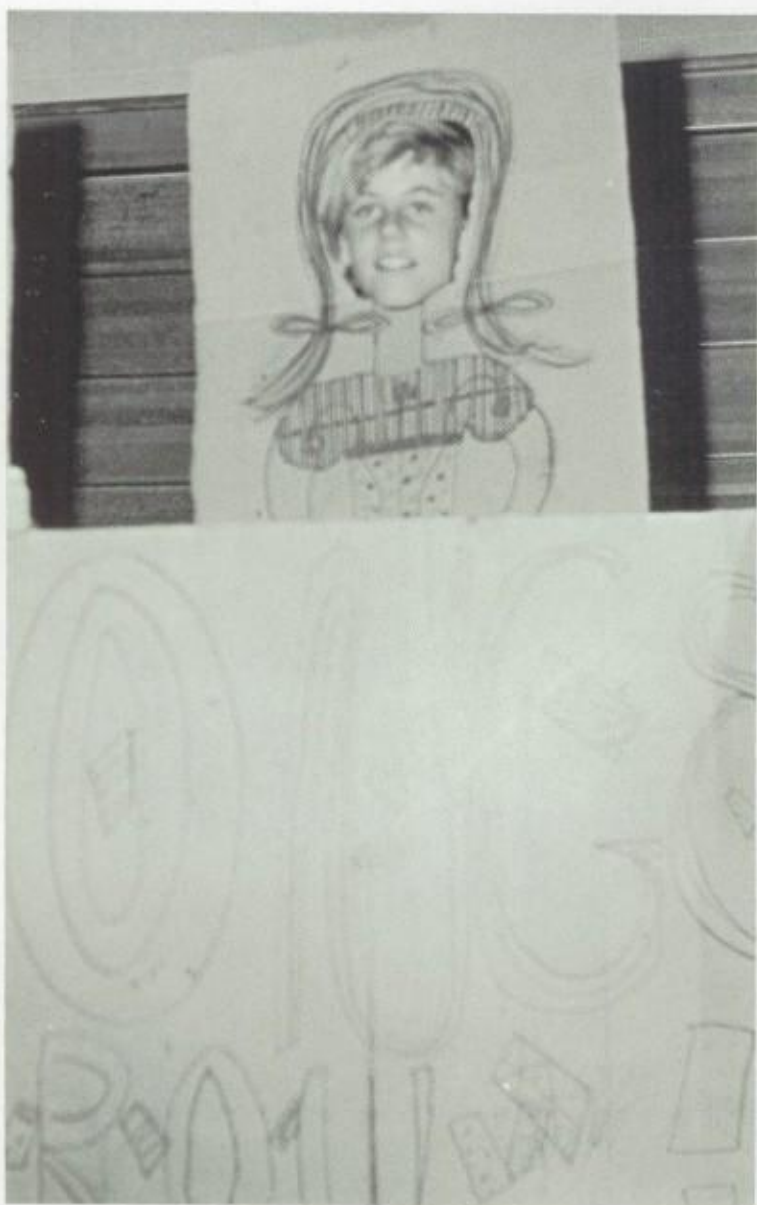

Fortuneteller Jeanie Lines looks into the future.

The haunting traditions of Halloween culminated in Ghosts-A-Go-Go, the frolicking Junior High party. On the afternoon of October 29 students relaxed and enjoyed the games and booths in the boys' gym. Others enthusiastically joined in dancing to the not-so-eerie rhythms of The Fragments. Refreshments completed the successful party sponsored by the Jr. High Student Council.

The "Eliminators" added excitement to the Freshman Party.

Junior High parties have always been a tradition at T.J. The afternoon socials provide the Junior Higher's with the opportunity of supervised fun.

This year the 7th, 8th, and 9th graders attended their parties with enthusiasm and danced or played games for an hour-and-a-half. Refreshments were provided by the student council while the festivities were co-operatively planned by the whole class.

Scatterbrained Essie is aptly portrayed by Lin Thyfault.

Fireworks and playwriting, ballet and xylophones, income tax and young love were combined to form the hilarious senior class play, "You Can't Take It With You." The Hart-Kaufman comedy satirized American concern for material wealth. Because of enthusiastic senior girl turnout, Director Harry Schanker "double-cast" the female roles. With the able assistance of Joanne McGee, student director; Bev Heller, technical director; Martha Oburn, prompter, and countless seniors on the properties and publicity committees, the performances on November 18 and 19 were a tremendous success.

Sophomores 'Schuss'

Ski posters, an artificial ski run, and blue and white streamers provided a setting for the sophomore dance, "Schuss." The snow enthusiasts danced to the music of the Vanguard-V from 8-11 January 23. "Schuss" success indicated the Class of '68's spirit as they actively supported their first high school dance.

Duo Dances Dynamic

TJ's clubs merged to present two dances during the year. The Daniels harmonized as couples weaved in and out of traffic signs at "Detour," the semester-break dance sponsored by the Pep Club and D-Club. Speakers Spout-Out

Bob Busch and Bob Parsons ponder a question posed by their debate opponents.

Competitive speech did exceedingly well this year, even though the void left by last year's seniors was filled by novices. Thomas Jefferson sent representatives to most of the meets sponsored by the NFL and brought honors home again. The entire speech team placed fourth out of 40 entries in the Lincoln meet and Dave Vaughn and Mary McDonald represented TJ in the Shaffroth competition. As in the past, TJ proved strong in the speech department.

Members of the "Outriggers" warm-up as junior highs wait for the dancing to begin.

"Cupid's Capers," the junior high's most successful party, was held February 14. Red and white decorations enhanced the Valentine theme as enthusiastic participants rocked to the "Outriggers" from 3:30-4:45. The climax of the afternoon was the coronation of the King and Queen of Hearts. Candidates for queen were Lise Brinton, Marti Burns, Joanne Guiry, Leann Maul, and Patsy Venuti. King candidates were Dave Entsminger, Stan Jackson, Bob Klein, Dave Perry, and John Stearns.

Girls, Beaus Hit By Eros' Arrow

Thrifty senior boys, in particular, enjoyed themselves at "Eros' Arrow."

As tradition would have it, the Saturday night after Valentine's Day was the night of the notorious "Eros' Arrow." The dance is sometimes called "wallflowers' night out," for it gives every girl in the senior high a chance to select, ask, and escort her dream-boy to a festive affair. Girls who really want to impress their dates take them out to dinner and present them with exquisite corsages made of garden greenery. Of course, the girls also take this opportunity to demonstrate their prowess at the wheel by driving to the dance.

The boys, or so they think, have it made, but waiting for an invitation often proves harder than "paying the way." Fortunately, all four of the candidates for king were asked to go this year, and, after a most stimulating performance by "Schmuck and the Four Jocks," during one of the "Daniels'" intermissions, Fred Brechtel was crowned King Eros.

So'loquians Stage 'Miracle'

The blind girls seek guidance from their patient and loved teacher, Ann Sullivan.

"The Miracle Worker," a three-act drama by William Gibson, was presented by the So'loquians in March. The play concerned the rescue of the blind and deaf Helen Keller from her "secret world" by a partially blind Irish teacher, Ann Sullivan. Directed by Mr. Harry Schanker, the set featured a cross-section of a two-story house and was the most difficult performance ever attempted at T.J.

Helen learns to see and understand the world through her sense of touch.

Student Council promoted activities ranging from the support of a Korean orphan to sponsoring Color Day. Throughout the year, they added meaning to school life with Citizenship and Brotherhood assemblies and hall decorations at Christmas time. Student Council also took part in a city-wide council exchange program and sent a committee to JFK to advise them on their many junior-senior high problems.

Aetates Marks End Of Era; Birth Of New Life

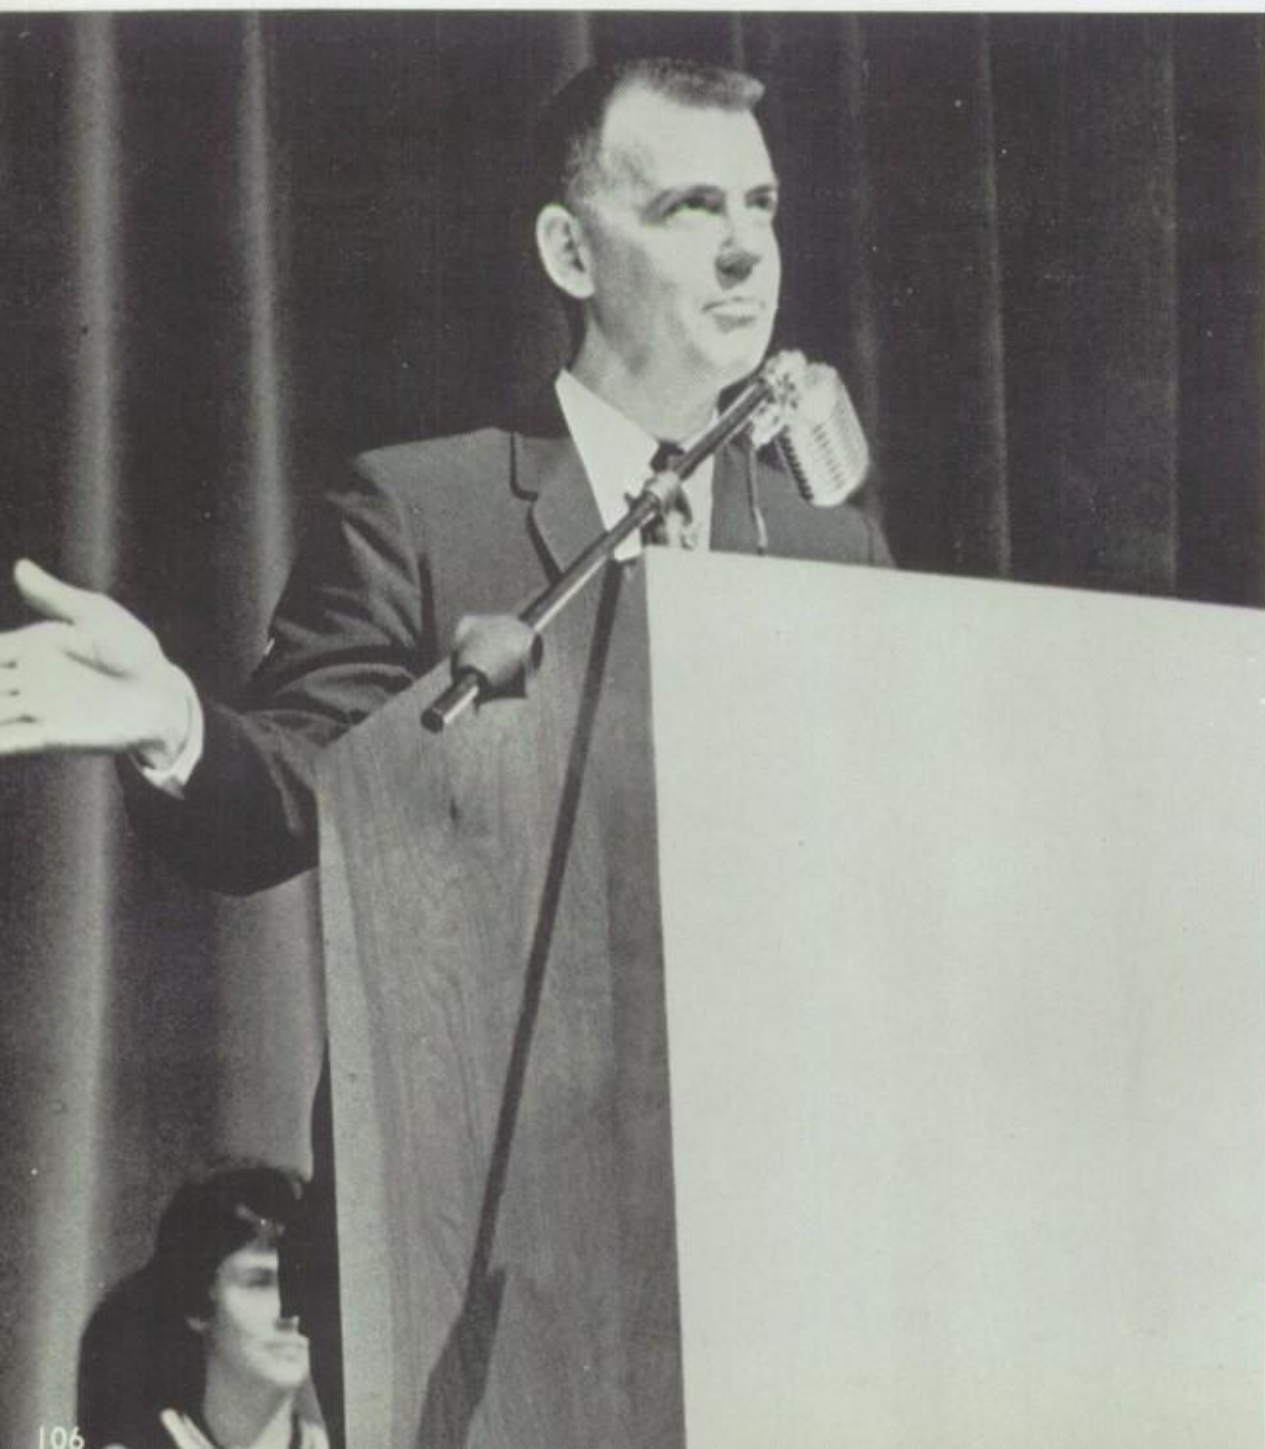

"Aetatis," meaning "life," was an appropriate tribute to the class of '66. It embodied the hopes and aspirations of its members throughout six years at Thomas Jefferson. But, in reality, it was merely the beginning of life. Seniors celebrated their birth into the adult world and the future at the Silver Glade Room of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, in Denver's finest restaurants before the prom, and at Denver's liveliest parties afterwards, especially at the barn. Susan Berardini was crowned Senior Prom Queen midway through the dance on an elaborate Grecian throne. The "Notables" provided the music. The memories of April 30 for the Senior Class of 1966 are of old friends, good music, fine food, and of six well-spent years at TJ.

Triple assemblies were initiated at TJ this year in order to accommodate the entire student body. Programs presented by various organizations were humorous, honorary, inspirational, and educational. One of the more interesting was the audio-visual presentation of NORAD at which the students were able to ask direct questions of an officer "in the mountain." Assemblies provided a break in the routine day and students appreciated the opportunity to learn out of the classroom.

"Shades" Psychs Out Spartans

Friday the thirteenth marked Thomas Jefferson's sixth Color Day. Despite the odious date, the entire day was successful—especially for seniors. The morning assembly was boisterously attended by senior high students. The day's schedule included the talent assembly, the All-City track meet, and the Color Day dance, this year entitled "Shades." While senior high students left the school grounds at noon, junior highers flooded the grounds for their field day.

Spartans Trample Presidents

The highly rated Washington Patriots succumbed to the might of T.J.'s scoring machine as the Spartans were again victorious. The half closed with the Spartans at a 7-0 deficit, but Fred Brechtel ran for a T.D. in both the third and fourth quarters. Fullback Jim Edwards added another in the fourth, as T.J. won 21-7, boosting their league record to 2-0. The win was T.J.'s first over Washington in six long years of competition.

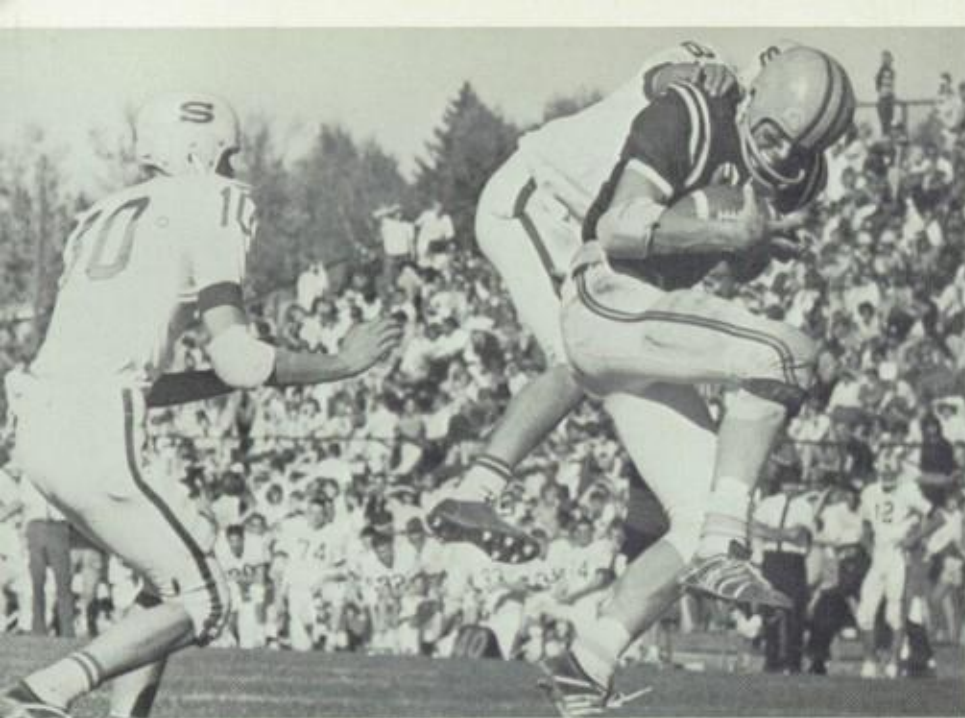

Matt Sterling calls upon fullback Jim Edwards for vital third down yardage against the Patriots.

In their first league game, the Spartans trounced the favored Lincoln Lancers 21-0. Quarterback Roy Wilson turned in his finest performance of the season by scoring a touchdown in both the second and fourth quarters. A Sterling-to-Brechtel pass completion led to a 22-yard touchdown in the first quarter. Ron McRae's three points after touchdown concluded T.J.'s scoring as the Spartans caught their first league victory.

Jim Edwards breaks over from the one-yard line for a fourth period tally against Washington.

Bob Masten, apparently stopped by a Rebel on South's seven-yard line . . .

For the second consecutive year, T.J. spoiled South's homecoming with a Spartan victory. The team led at the end of the first quarter 14-0 due to a spectacular pass interception and 89-yard runback by safety Fred Brechtel and a quarterback sneak from the three-yard line by Matt Sterling. Bob Masten, end, scored the first of his many touchdowns this season with a fine pass reception in the end zone for the lone second quarter tally. The second half went scoreless as the Spartans gained their third league victory, 19-0.

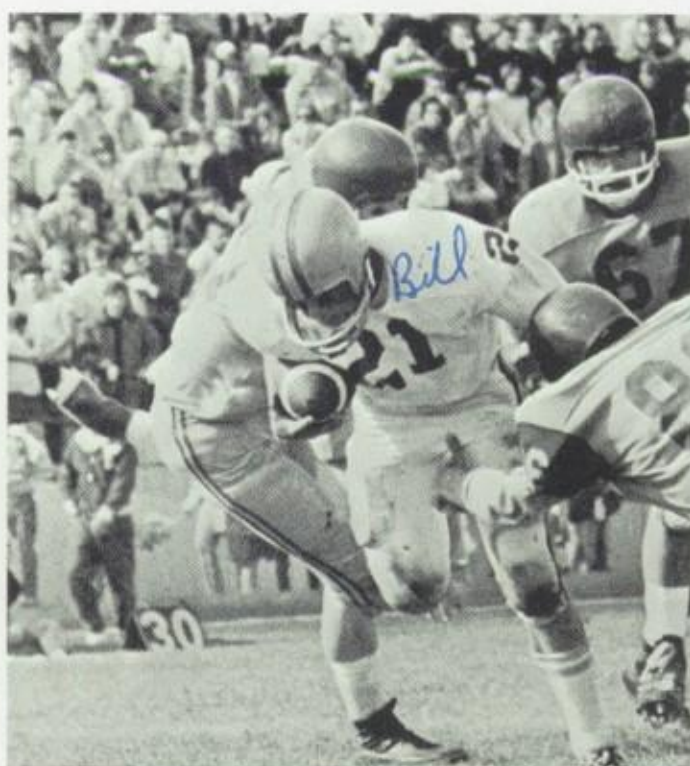

Compass Points To Spartan Victories

Ron McRae, who earlier blocked a North punt to score a safety, snares a pass from Matt Sterling to gain crucial yardage.

Bill Stearns plunges through the North defense to the 15 yard line to put T.J. in easy scoring position.

The T.J. defense, number one in the state, racked North as the Spartans sustained a long winning streak. The T.J. offense also sparked with a score in each period. North was rated the favorite, but Ron McRae blocked a first quarter Viking punt that bounded out of the end zone for T.J.'s first two points. In the second quarter, Bill Stearns made a dazzling run on a screen pass completion for 54 yards and the first touchdown of the game. Masten scored on Sterling's fourth touchdown toss, and Roy Wilson exploded on a four-yard keeper in the final quarter to give the Spartans a 22-0 victory.

Spartans Ground Angels . . .

Halfback Fred Brechtel sweeps right end for a seven-yard gain in the East game.

Another first for this year's team was a victory over East. Panek's Angels had a last chance to win the city title for their retiring coach, but the talented arm of Matt Sterling and the always-tough defense thwarted East's spirited efforts. With only 3:25 gone, the Spartans struck on a 65-yard pass play from Sterling to Masten. A second quarter T.D. pass with Pat Jarrell receiving concluded the first half scoring. A 70-yard drive was capped as Roy Wilson went over from the one. A 21-yard pass to East's Roger Cheatham was the only Angel tally as the Spartans won their first league championship, 20-7.

Bob Masten prepares to lead the blocking for hard running Ron McRae.

The East defense stiffens here, as Ron McRae is held for no gain.

. . . Drive To Undeclared Season

The last-place West Cowboys could do little to stop the high-spirited Spartans, as Thomas Jefferson rolled to a 53-0 shutout. A 33-point second period, which included two pass interceptions returned for touchdowns by Gary Sparks and Fred Brechtel was the highlight of T.J.'s sixth homecoming game.

Halfback Bill Stearns gets the call in a second down counter play in the Manual game.

Jefferson completed a spotless season by whipping Manual at the South High Stadium. With machine-like smoothness, the Spartans built up a 20-0 halftime lead. Bob Masten snared two touchdown passes, one a shocking 75-yard Brechtel pass, to cap an outstanding year. Jim Edwards blasted over left tackle to complete the Spartan scoring as T.J. finished its first undefeated football season.

Jim Edwards, fullback, speeds through a big hole in the Canon City line.

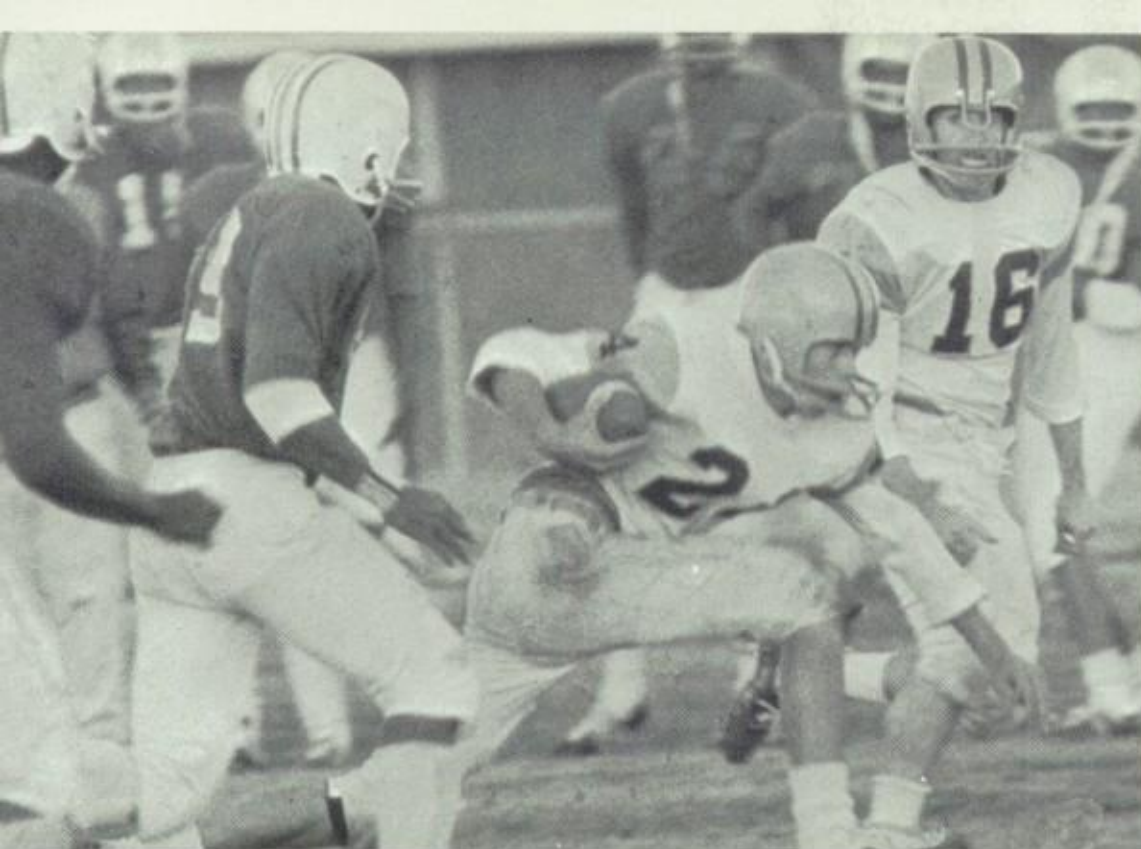

Driving hard, Fred Brechtel crashes into a Poudre lineman.

In their first state playoffs, the talented Spartans rocked Canon City 41-14. T. J. scored on the first play of the game as Bob Masten recovered the fumbled kick-off and rambled into the end zone. Scoring by Masten, Sterling, Wilson, Brechtel, McRae, and Stearns made the trip to Canon City worthwhile.

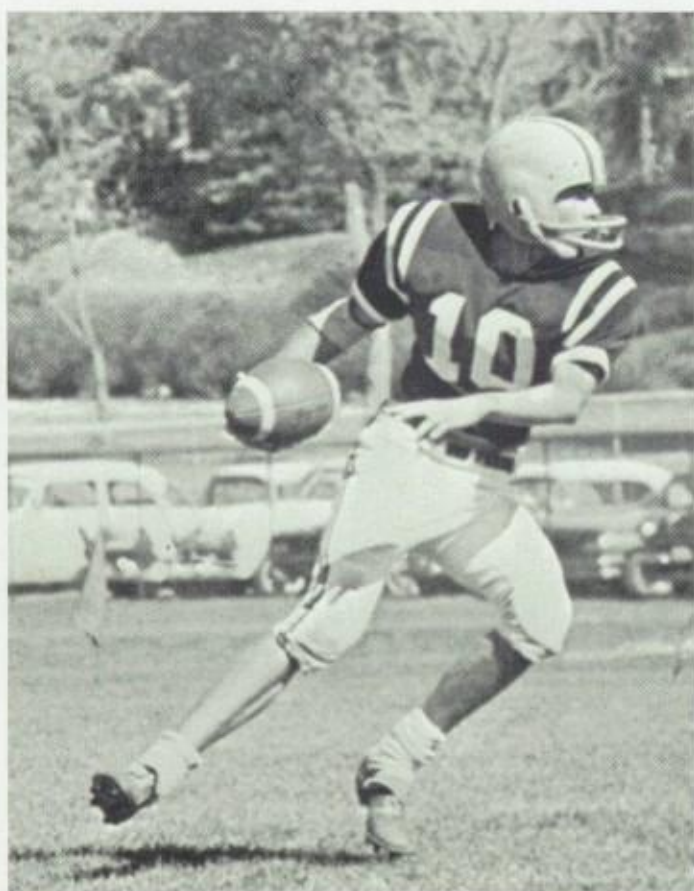

Bob Masten pulls in a sideline pass from Q.B. Matt Sterling for an eight yard gain against the Impalas.

A tense crowd cheered for four quarters as the Poudre Impalas and the Spartans battled to reach the state finals. Each team threatened to score, but regulation play ended in a 0-0 deadlock. A 12-play "California play-off" followed. The ball was in Poudre territory for the first six plays, then ended up on the T. J. 24-yard line in the last play, giving Poudre two points and ending the most successful football season ever at T.J. For their outstanding efforts throughout the season, the seven following Spartans were placed on the all-city team: Fred Brechtel, Pat Jarrell, Ron McRae, Gary Sparks, Bill Stearns, Matt Sterling, and Roy Wilson. Pat Jarrell was also named all-metro and all-state end.

Coming away from the line, Skip Davis sprints toward the T.J. goal as Don Shubin, number 16, prepares to block.

The whistle blows, and T.J. is stopped for a small gain against Manual. Rod Vernon, number 29, looks on.

The junior varsity, coached by Mr. Ken Hughes, finished third in city competition this year. The J.V.'s were handicapped by the many juniors who were reserved for varsity play. With the depth of this year's varsity juniors and the fine support of next year's varsity, the Spartans should claim the city title for a second consecutive year.

Don Shubin, J.V. punt return specialist, shifts position to field a punt.

This year's sophomore team again copped the city title. Coaches Andy Geiss and Dick Golder guided the sophs to a 6-1 season, the only loss going to fifth place North. Sophomore strength indicated a strong future for the Spartan's varsity gridgers.

By placing third in city and third in state, the tennis team gave T.J. its best finish in six seasons of competition. The doubles team of Mike Harper and Clive Grant slammed into the city championship, but took second in state because of a loss to East, which Mike and Clive had beaten in the city finals. Eight seniors, junior Clive Grant, and sophomore Ted Gelt composed this year's outstanding team.

T.J.'s number one man, junior Larry Webb, showed over-all strength on the links, evidenced here in a powerful drive.

Cully Marshall hits a strong three-wood off the fairway.

Inexperience proved to be the drawback of this year's golf team. With no returning lettermen, Coach Smith's golfers managed to place fifth in city competition. The "Spartan Spirit" prevailed, however, as the Spartans defeated East, West, and Manual.

After a ripping eye gouge from Spartan Steve Mountjoy, an under-handed North loopster attempts a shoe-lace take-down in retaliation.

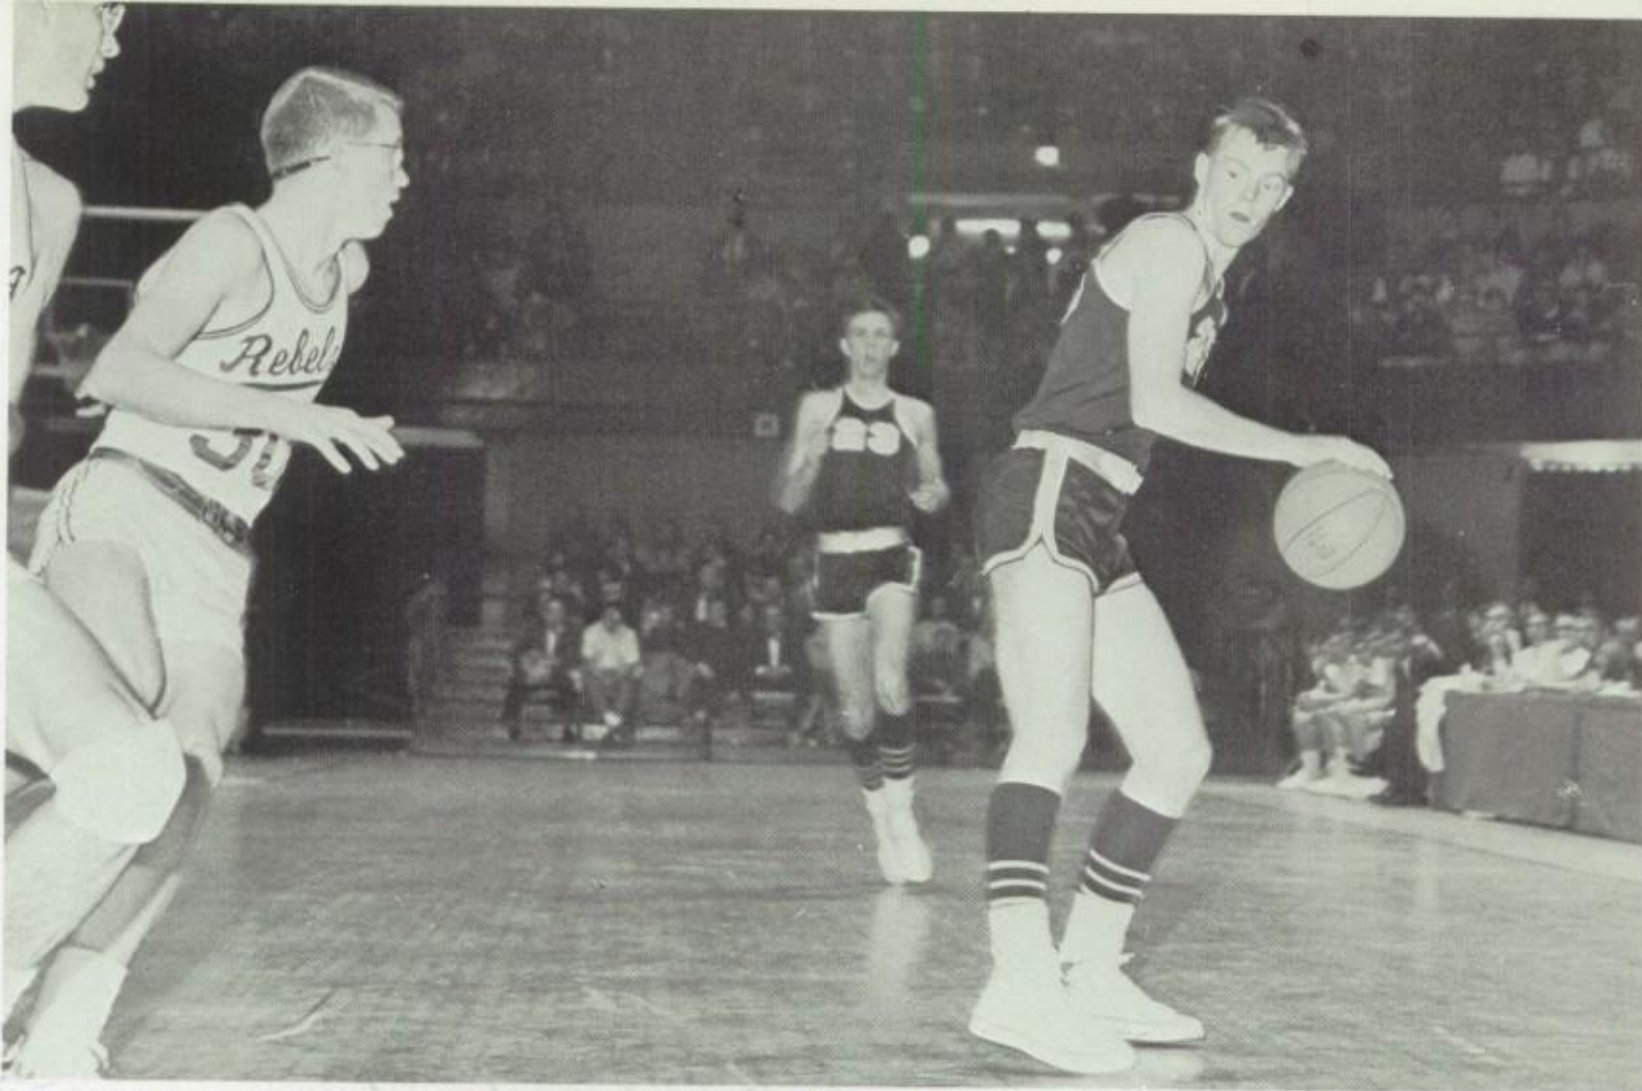

Seemingly repulsed by the ball, Steve Krieger and two North players scrap for a rebound.

After winning seven consecutive non-league games, the Spartan dribblers lost their league opener to George Washington in a record-breaking game. A spirited fourth quarter surge fell short, 81-74. One week later the story was reversed as T.J.'s full-court press baffled the West Cowboys, and the Spartans won, 73-55. The vital East game followed. Although East was ranked number one in state, strong rebounding and a 22-point final quarter upset the Angels, 70-61. North fell to the Spartans' might next. The score was tied five times during the game, but typical T.J. hustle thwarted the Viking upset attempt as the game ended 55-45. After four games in league competition, the Spartan record was 3-1.

Wary of a charging Rebel, Dudley Mitchell brings the ball down court in the South game.

Varsity Ends Season 4-3

After being upset by South, the Spartans passed by North, only to take their second beating from Manual, the city champions, in the final game of regular season play. Hindered by the loss of Roy Wilson, the Spartan hoopmen couldn't put down the offensive attack of South, losing 61-54. T.J. had the same trouble with the North Vikings, but managed to pull ahead in the fourth quarter to preserve a 55-45 victory. Against Manual the Spartans battled to a 35-35 half-time tie, but Manual was able to capitalize on Spartan mistakes to take a 79-69 win, closing out T.J.'s regular season play with a 4-3 record.

Steve Krieger drives through the South defense for a hard-earned two points.

Hanging tight, Steve Mountjoy pulls down a rebound in further South action.

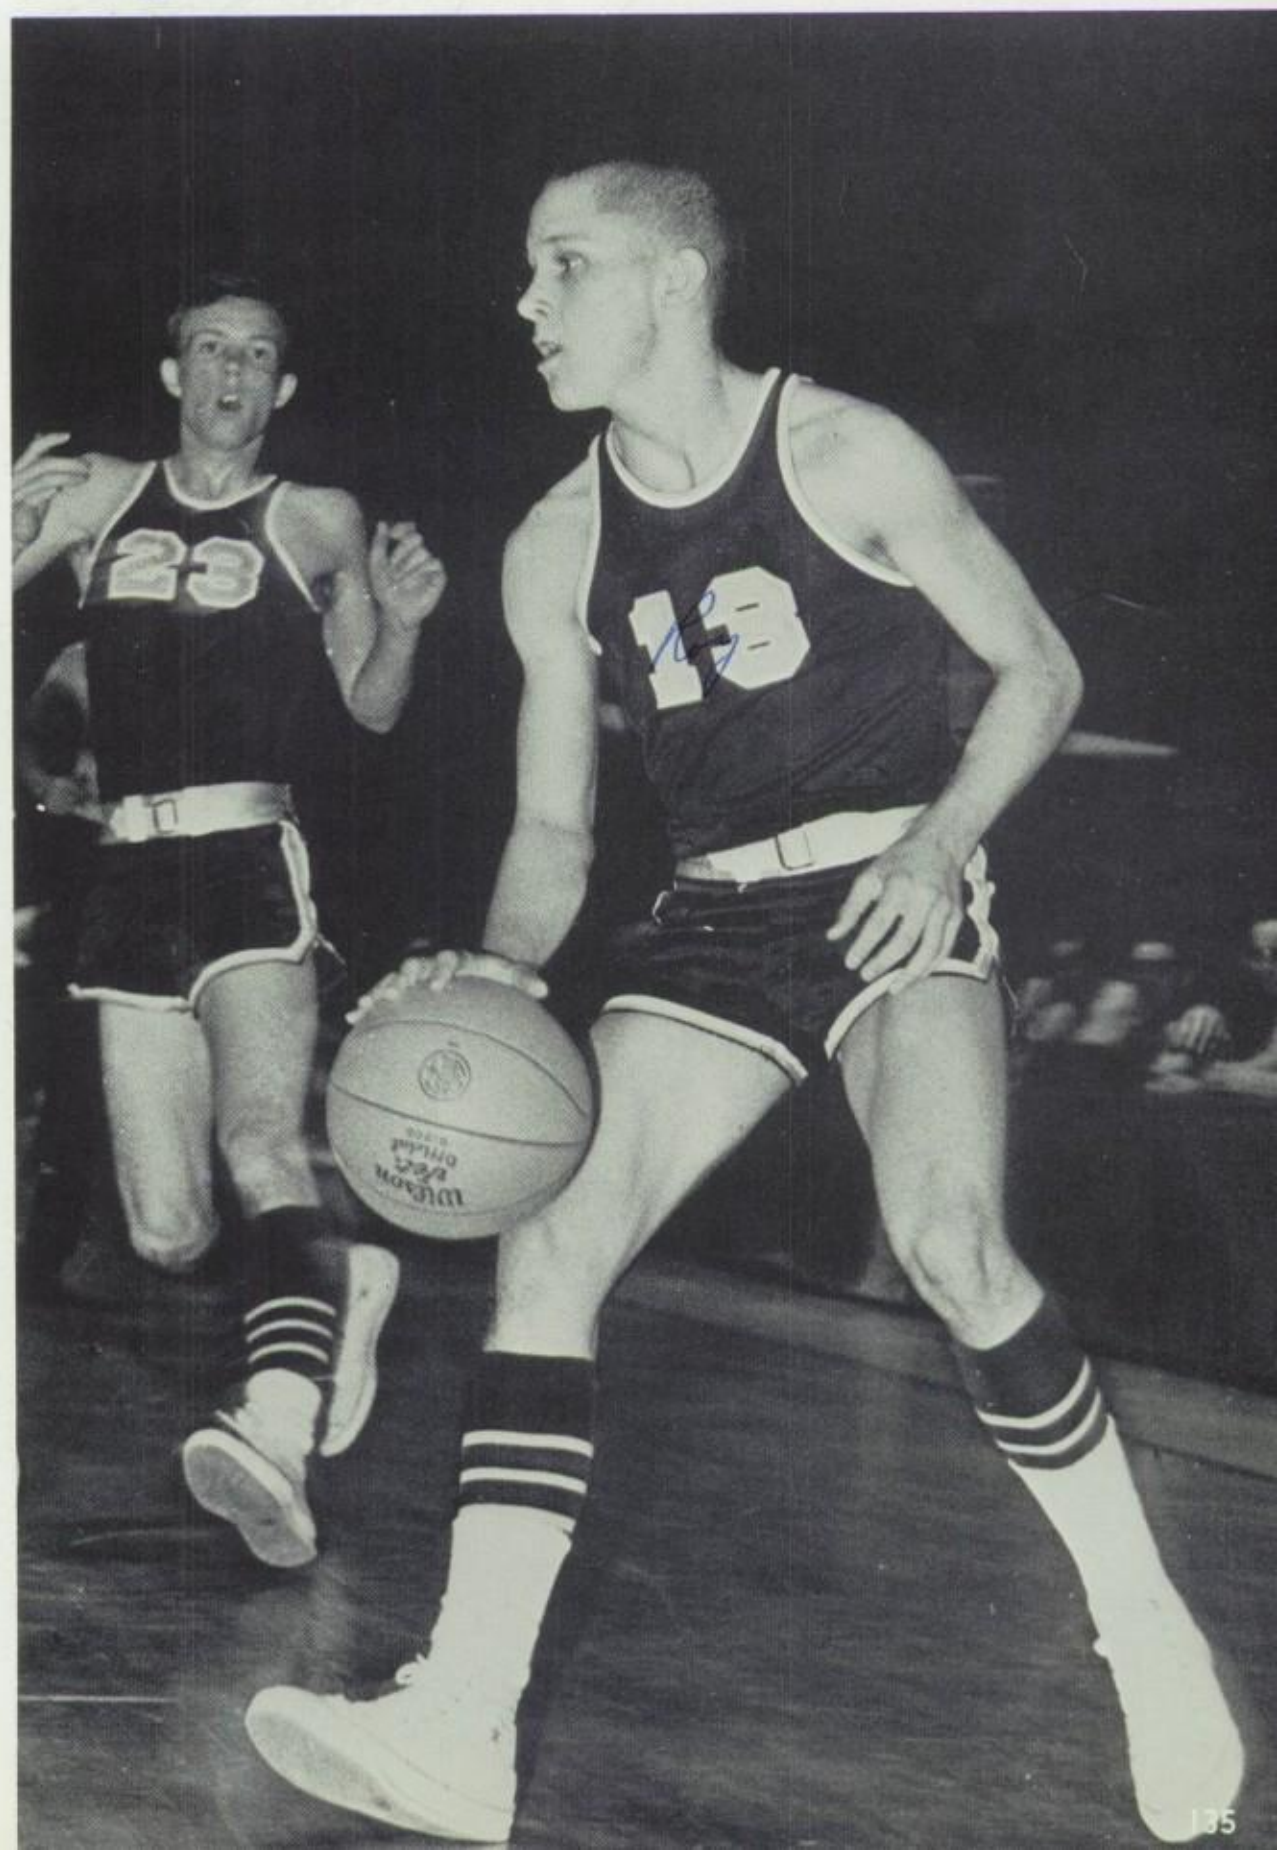

Going over defenders' heads, Steve Krieger allies two points in the tournament finals against Manual.

After regular season play had ended, T.J. entered into the Denver High School City Basketball Tournament by downing North 73-62 in the preliminaries, and moved into semifinal play against South. Unable to stop the powerful offensive attack of the Spartans, South fell 60-45, as T.J. gained sweet revenge after the earlier upset South had dealt out. Finally in front of 3,000 screaming fans, the T.J. hoopmen came within six points of upsetting the Manual city champs, 79-73, and taking the city tournament title. Paced by junior guard, Roy Wilson, who scored 23 points, the Spartans came within 1 point of Manual, 66-65 with 4:27 remaining in the game, but the Thunderbolts managed to squelch the rally in the final minutes of the fourth quarter.

All-city guard Roy Wilson looks cautiously towards North defenders before scoring a bucket in other tournament action.

Mountjoy, we've really had some good times this year. You're a great guy. Work real hard and this year you'll be All-State. We'll have to work extra hard for the state. Keep up the good work. Good Luck. God Bless, Roy

Despite the loss of four junior starters to the varsity squad, the junior varsity enjoyed a successful season. The J.V.'s fought several close contests, and came out victorious in most of them. Spartans Smash Way . . .

Bill Green and John Loss, both seniors and transfer students from Grand Junction, spearhead the Spartan offensive.

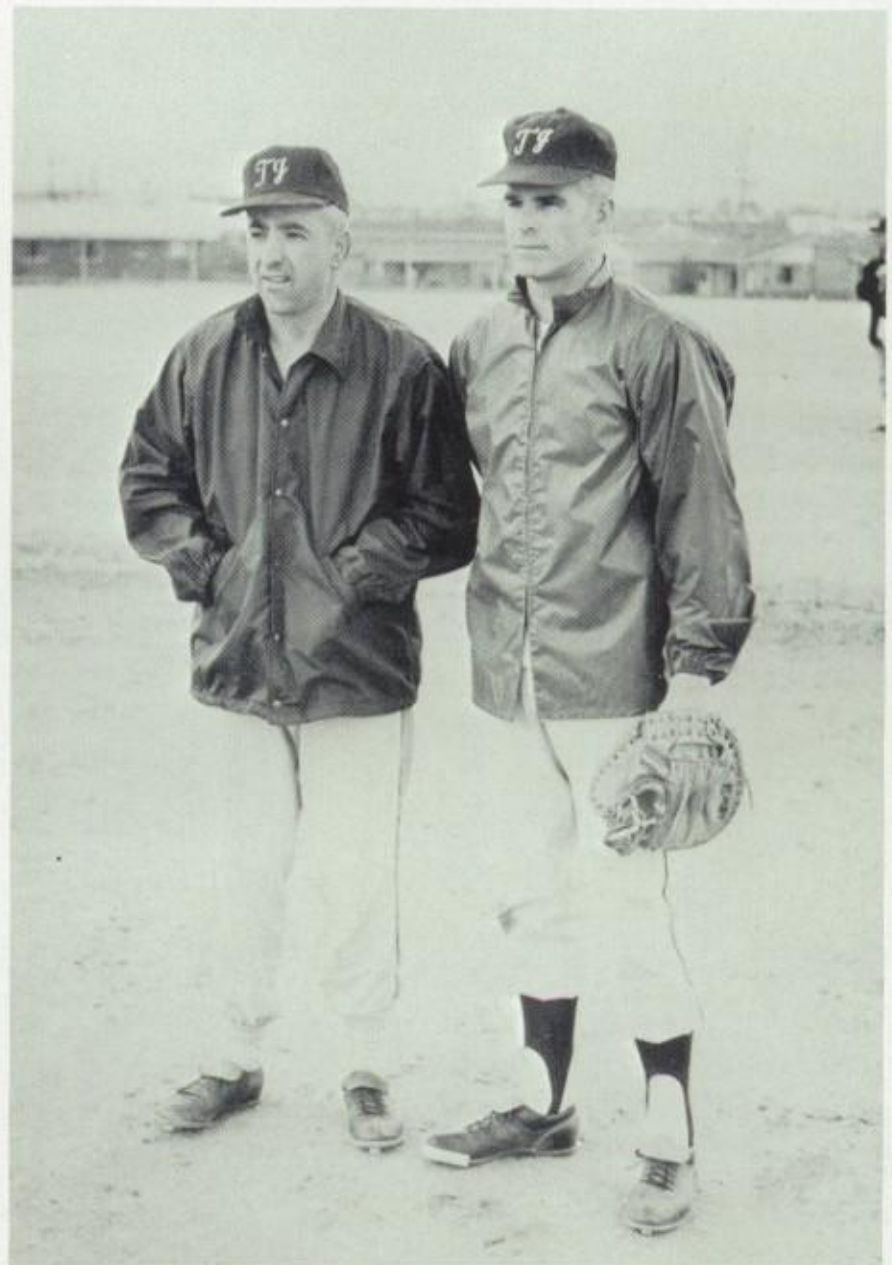

Senior Ron McRae, last year's Denver batting champion, takes his cuts in the batting cage.

Second baseman Bill Stearns tosses the ball to shortstop Roy Wilson for a sure double-play combination in pre-season action.

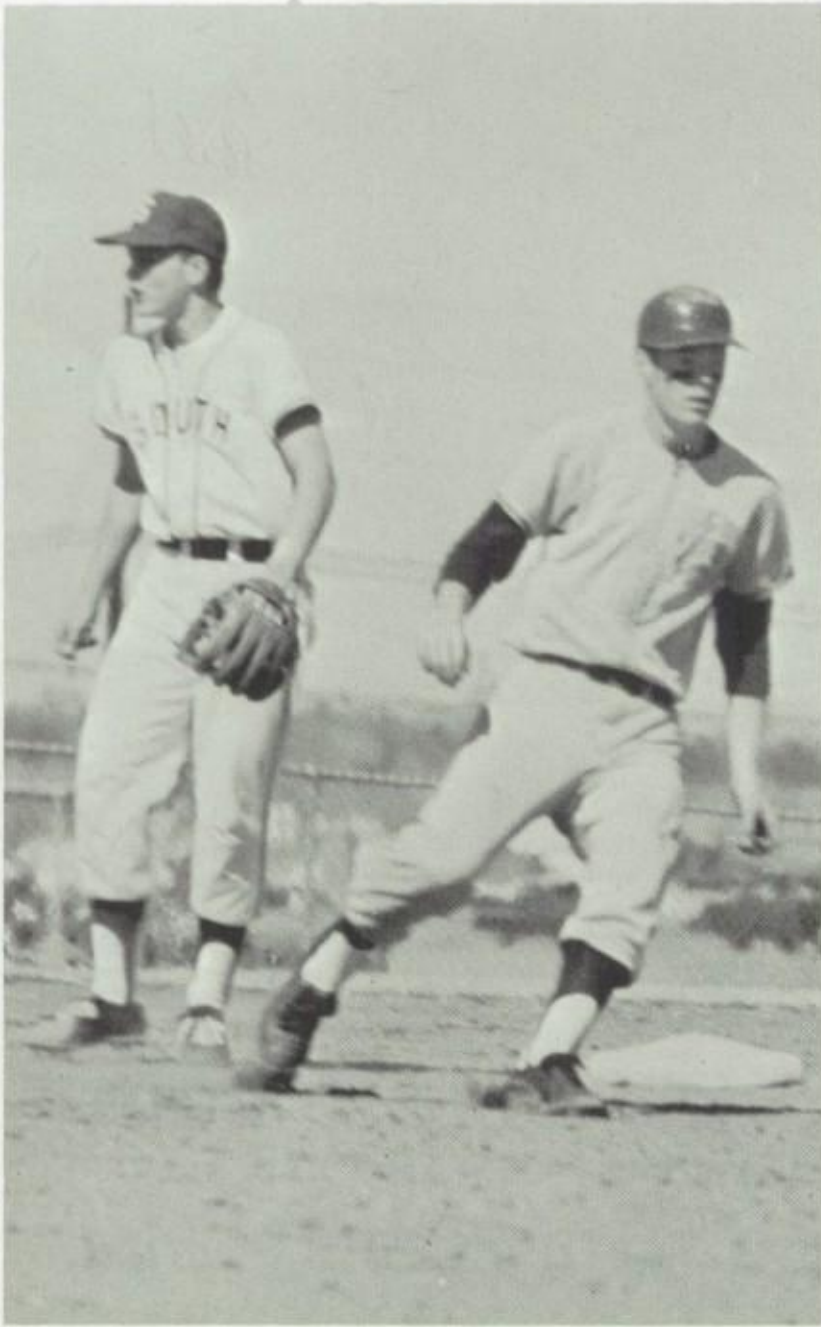

. . . To City Title

Five returning lettermen, Bill Green, Pat Jarrell, Ron Graves, Mike Harper, and Ron McRae formed a strong nucleus for this year's baseball champions. Following the example set by last year's undefeated championship team, the Spartans showed both offensive and defensive strength. Transfer sluggers Dudley Mitchell and John Loss supplemented last year's city batting champion Ron McRae. Juniors Roy Wilson and Billy Stearns rounded out T.J.'s varsity with strong fielding power. With these team attributes T.J. was a sure bet for the city title.

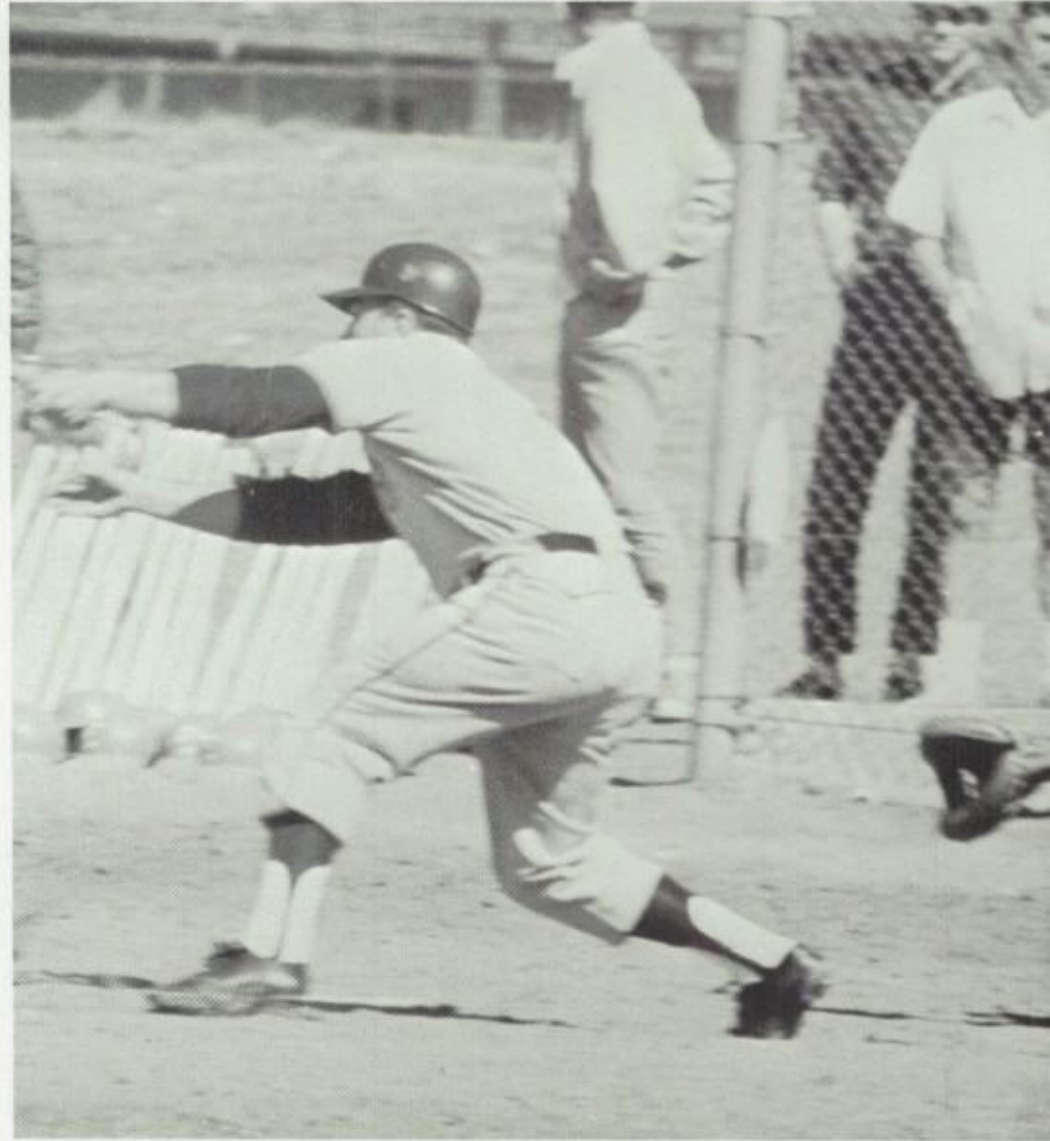

New head coach Ken Hughes and assistant Jim Redic watch intently as the baseballers go through batting practice.

Diamondmen Slide Toward State

Dudley Mitchell rounds second base after smashing a ball to the fence.

Batting ace Ron McRae blasts his first home run of the season against South.

Sweeping the city title with a record of 15-1, T.J. headed into the state play-offs. Perched atop the prep baseball poll, the favored Spartans had an excellent chance to bring home T.J.'s first state baseball championship. In a pre-season game against last year's champions, Palmer of Colorado Springs, the Spartans gained revenge for their '65 state title defeat by downing the Terrors 8-1. With the outstanding coaching of Ken Hughes and his staff, the Spartans were sure contenders for the state crown.

Hurler Mike Harper splits the strike zone with a fast ball.

TJ SPARTANS START FAST, DEFEAT LAKEWOOD, 7-1, FOR STATE CROWN...

GREELEY, May 21, 1966 (Special)--Thomas Jefferson ripped Lakewood for four first-inning runs and then coasted to a 7-1 triumph Saturday to claim the Class AAA prep baseball championship.

Aurora Hinkley's Centennial League champions laced Ft. Collins, 11-1, to win third-place honors.

Jefferson teed off on right-hander Bob Fisher as Lakewood Coach Dean Pilcher gambled on a weary pitcher in a bit of faulty strategy which cost the Tigers dearly.

Fisher had pitched strongly in Friday's semifinals, scattering seven hits as Lakewood trimmed Ft. Collins, 10-1.

Fisher found himself in deep trouble after retiring TJ's lead-off batter Don Shubin. Lakewood started the Spartans off when First Baseman Bob Liedike committed the only error of the game, dropping a throw at first base which allowed Rick Corbin to be the first baserunner of the game.

Ron McRae and Dudley Mitchell followed with ground ball singles through the infield to fill the bases and Bill Stearns cleaned the sacks with a double to rightcenter. Roy Wilson grounded out for the second out but Billy Green unloaded a double to score Stearns with the fourth run of the inning.

The pitcher-rich Spartans then leaned on the strong right arm of Mike Harper who followed up Matt Sterling's route-going mound job Friday with a nifty 4-hitter.

Harper fanned eight and walked only two while yielding a lone sixth inning tally.

Meanwhile, Jefferson continued to take its picks on Fisher, scoring twice in the third and once in the fourth before Dave Sauder came in to still the Spartans' bats.

Mitchell accounted for the Spartans' two third-inning runs when he unloaded a 360-foot home run over the leftfield fence following a single by McRae.

Shubin opened the fourth with a triple and trotted home on Corbin's double.

Sauder then came in to pitch strongly over the final three and two-thirds innings, limiting Jefferson to two hits.

Sauder started a double play to bail the Tigers out of a jam in the fourth after relieving Fisher. McRae grounded back to the box and Sauder threw him out at first. First sacker Liedike then nailed Corbin at home when he attempted to score from third on the play.

Lakewood's lone tally came in the sixth when Ed Kingry tripled and came home as Steve Bradley grounded out.

ALL-TOURNEY TEAM

Pitchers--Matt Sterling, Thomas Jefferson; Mike Harper, Thomas Jefferson.

Catcher--Art Stapp, Lakewood.

First Base--Dudley Mitchell, Thomas Jefferson.

Second Base--Roy Wilson, Thomas Jefferson.

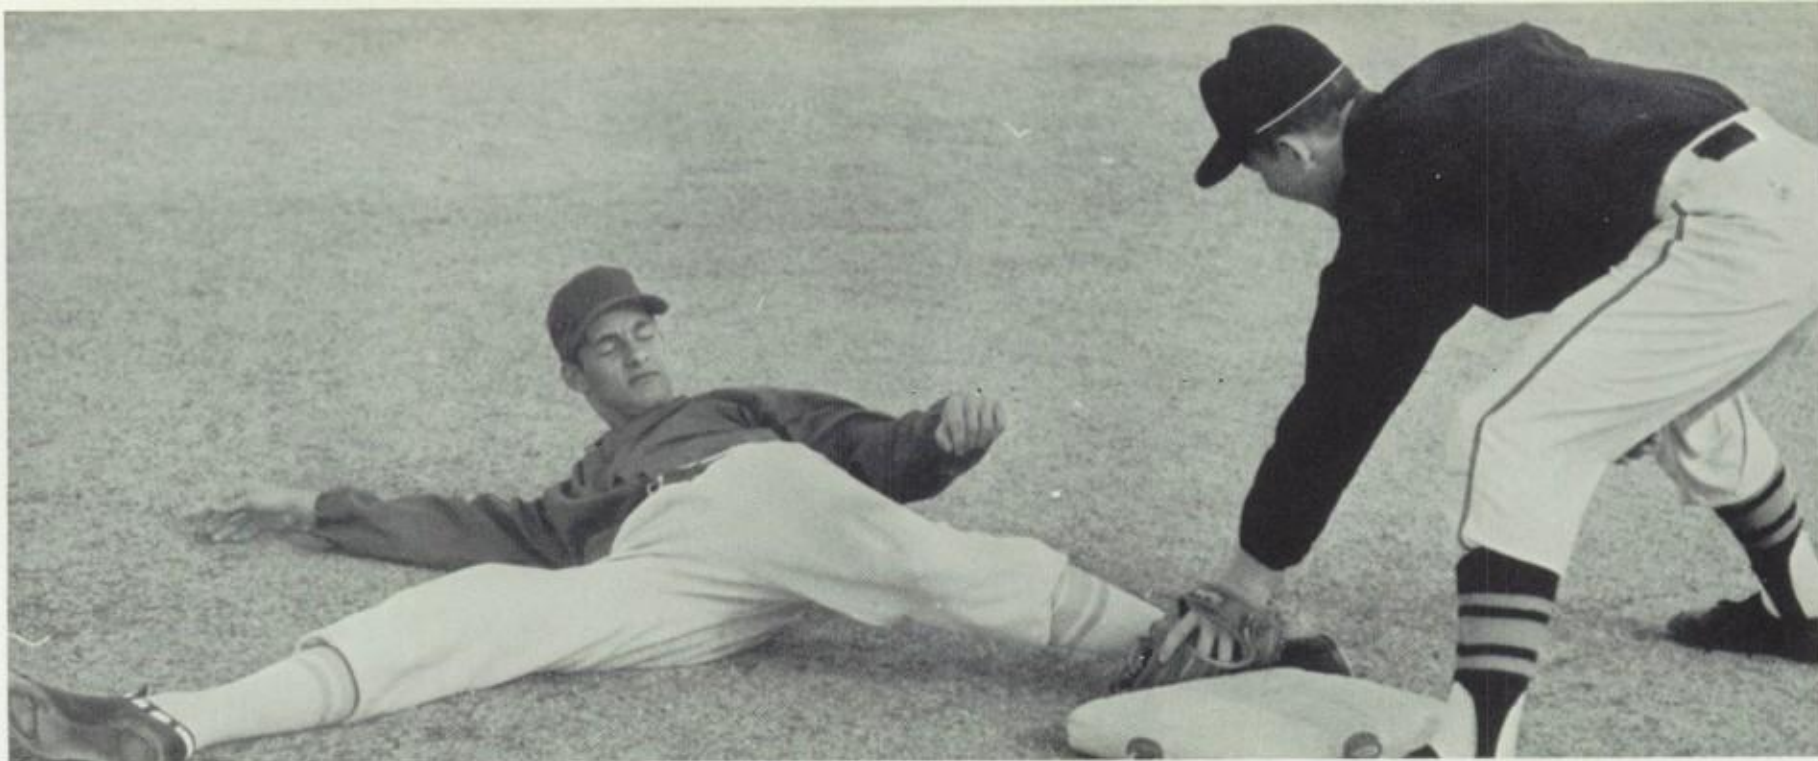

Third Base--Ed Kingry, Lakewood.

Shortstop--Bill Stearns, Thomas Jefferson.

Utility Infielder--Ron McRae, Thomas Jefferson.

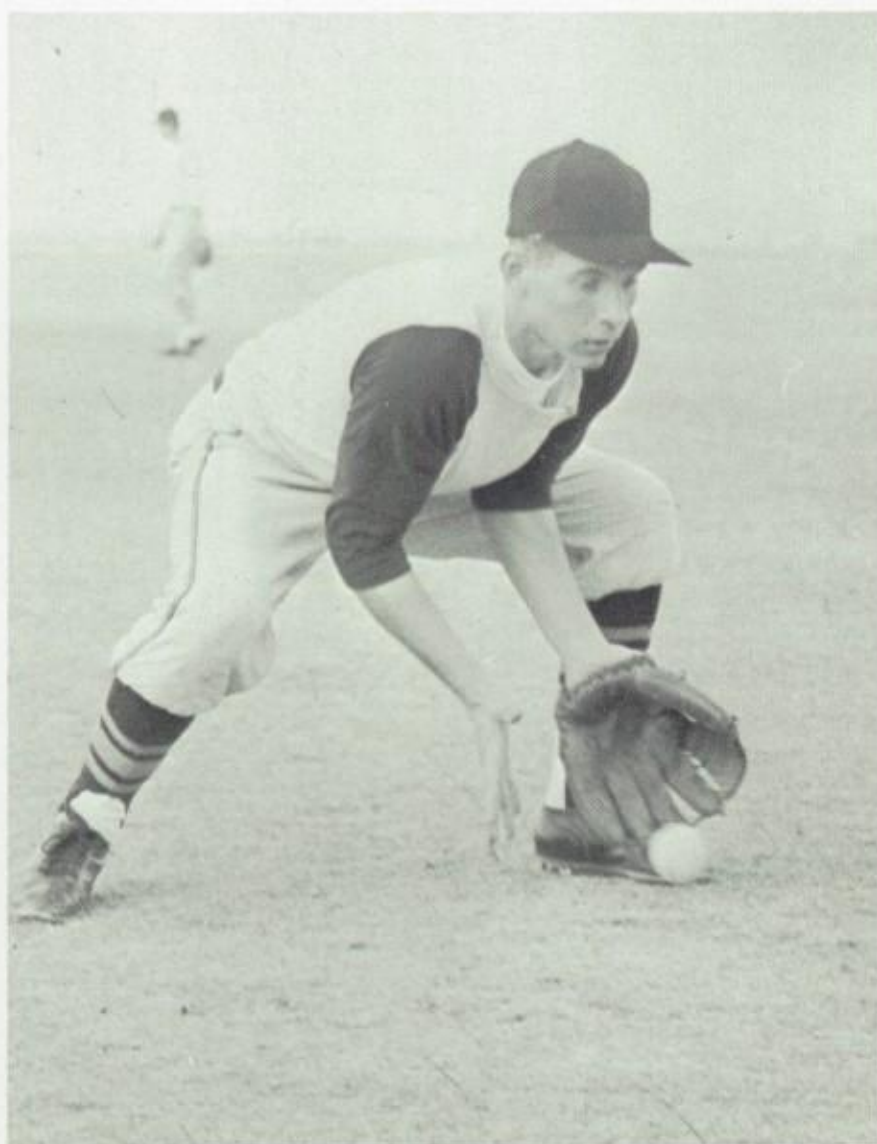

Outfielders--Don Shubin, Thomas Jefferson; Rick Corbin, Thomas Jefferson; Steve Barnhill, Aurora Hinkley.
Utility Outfielder--Norm Beddow, Aurora Hinkley.

ADDITIONAL NOTES:

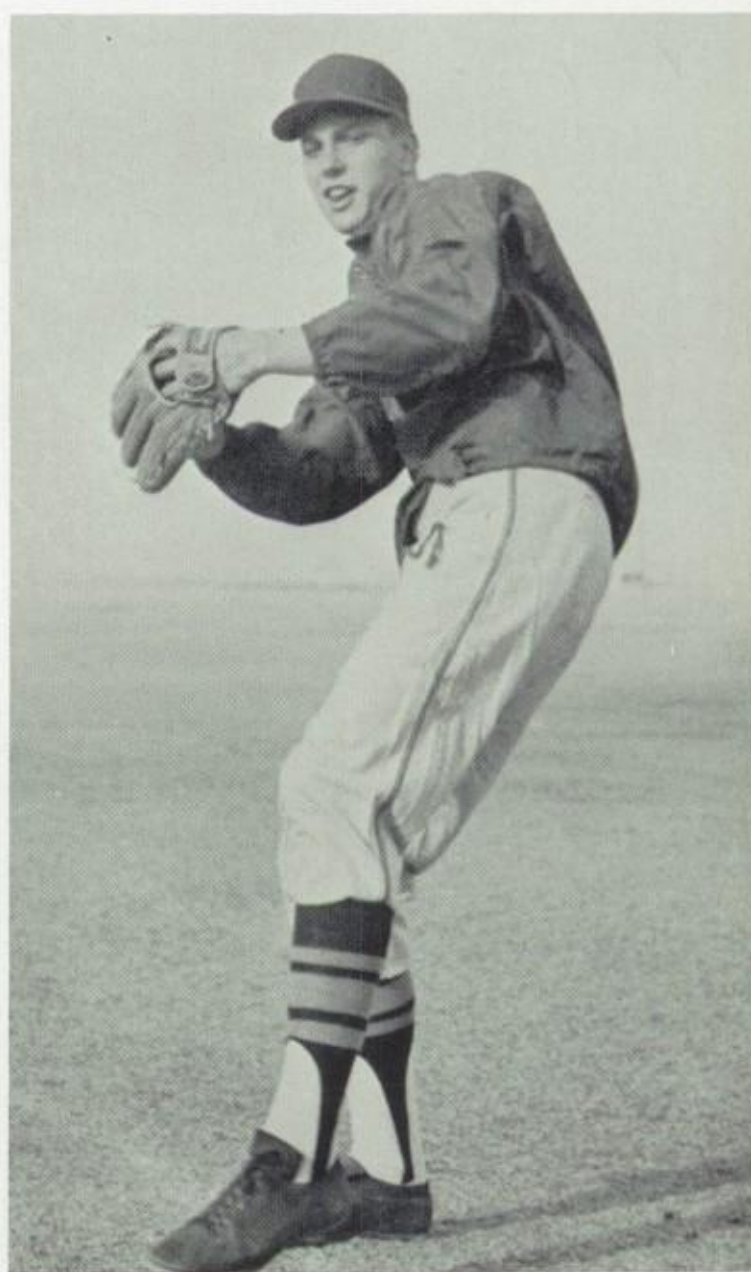

Paul Arendt makes a smooth slide into second base in a pre-season practice.

Soph Swingers Score High

Sure-handed Keith Ellison fields a grounder.

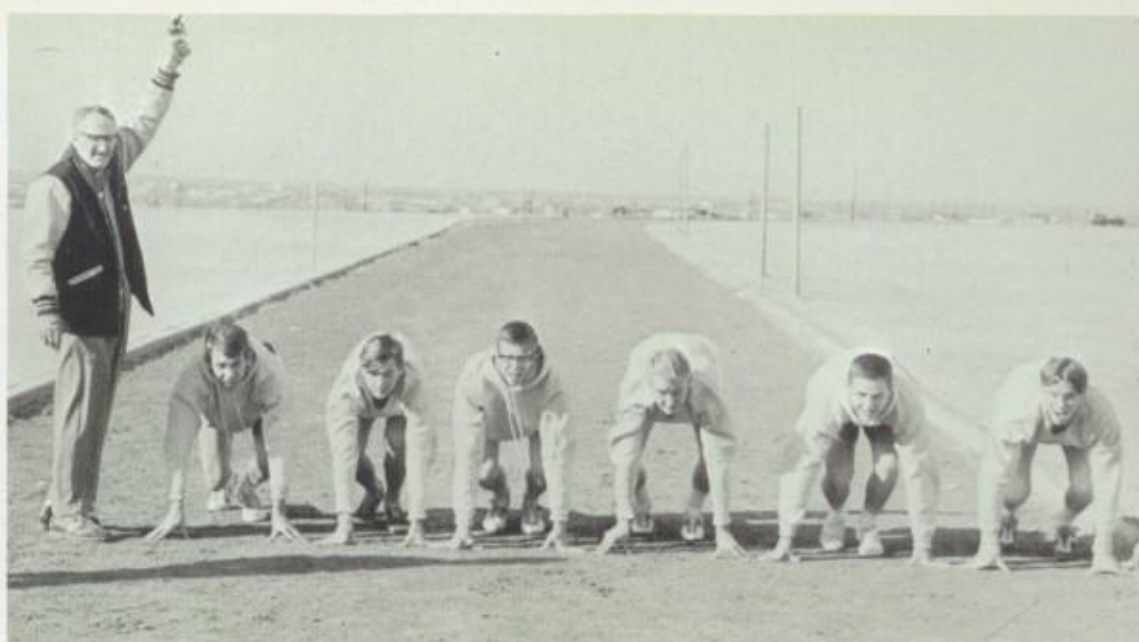

Paul Humphrey, the Soph's best hurler, warms up.

The Sophomore fielders showed great potential this season under the leadership of Coach Don Day. Concentrating on fundamentals, the Sophs prepared for later play on the varsity nine. Their depth and ability indicated that TJ would finish high in future baseball rankings.

Junior John Jesmer aims high for pole vaulting competition.

Spikesters Vault To Victories

This year's track team, dominated by Seniors, finished higher in city competition than any previous T.J. team. The mile relay team, consisting of Cully Marshall, Steve Wightman, Bob Humphrey, and Bob Therrell, showed promise for high placement in city competition. Strength was also shown in the field events, starring Al Gray jumping and Doug Robertson putting the shot, increasing the Spartans' chances for a strong team finish.

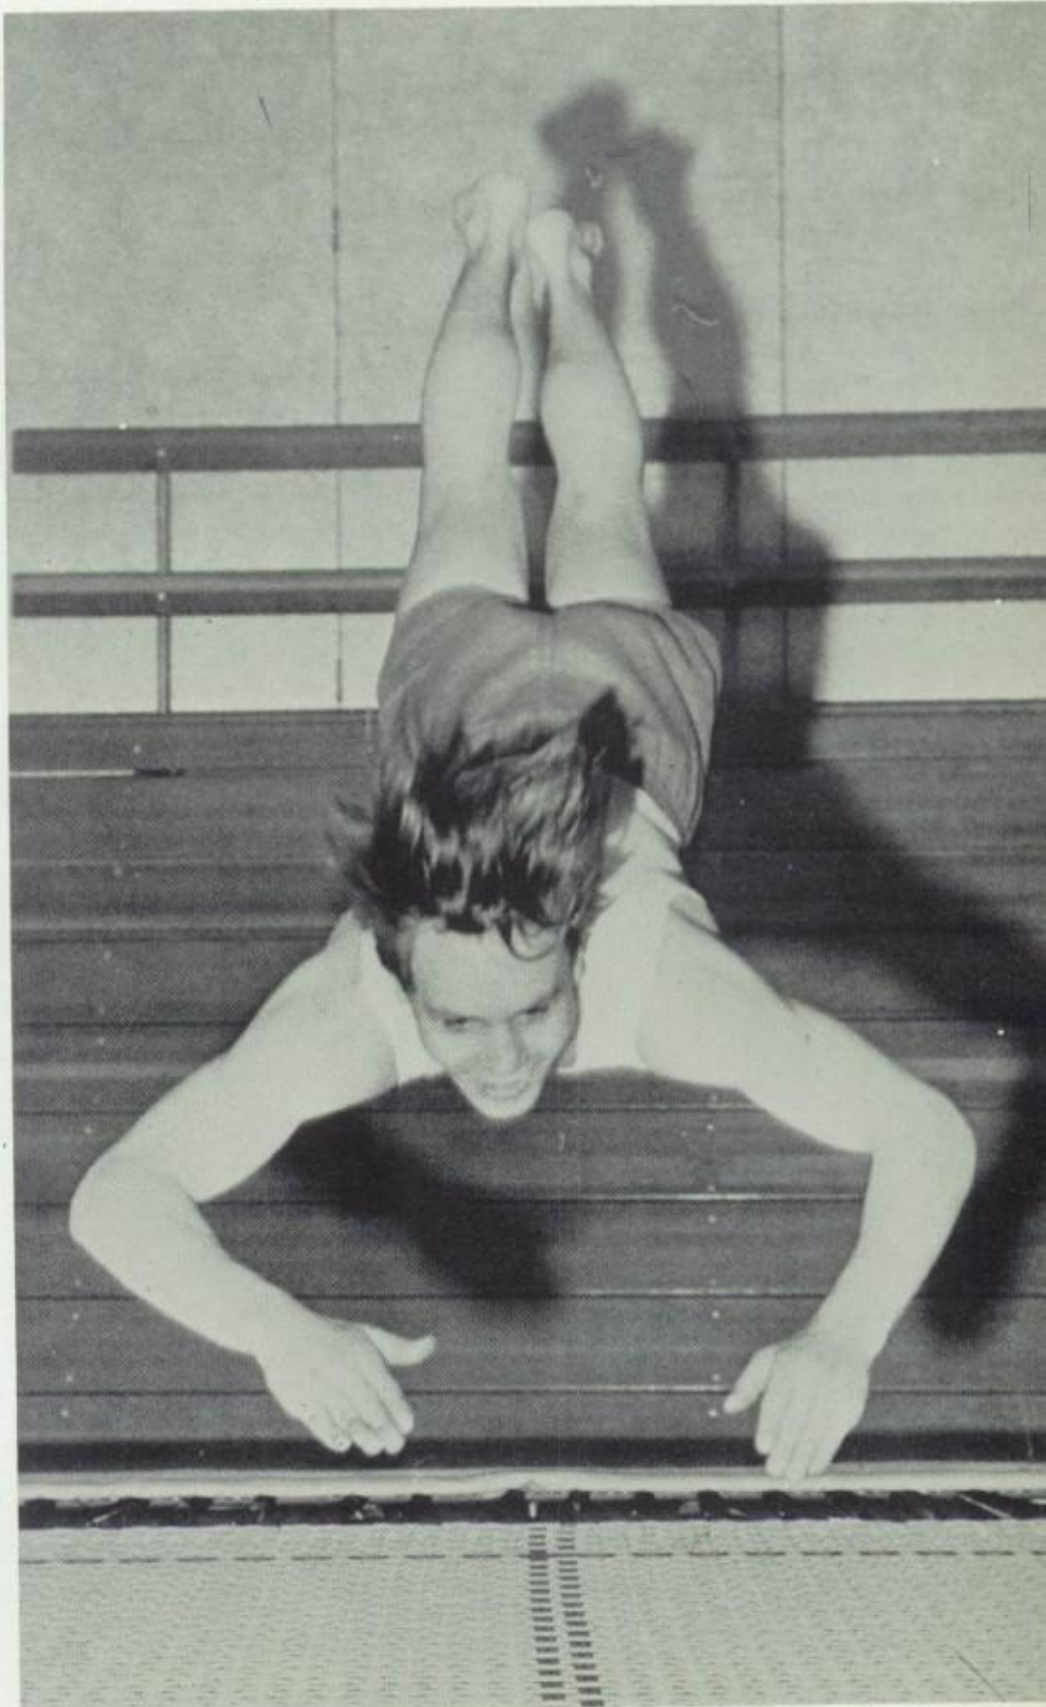

Cully Marshall and Allan Day prepare for a grueling half-miler.

Joe Saracino is aided by head coach Smith.

Letterman Jim Albright dives for the trampoline.

“Smith” Forges Gymnasts

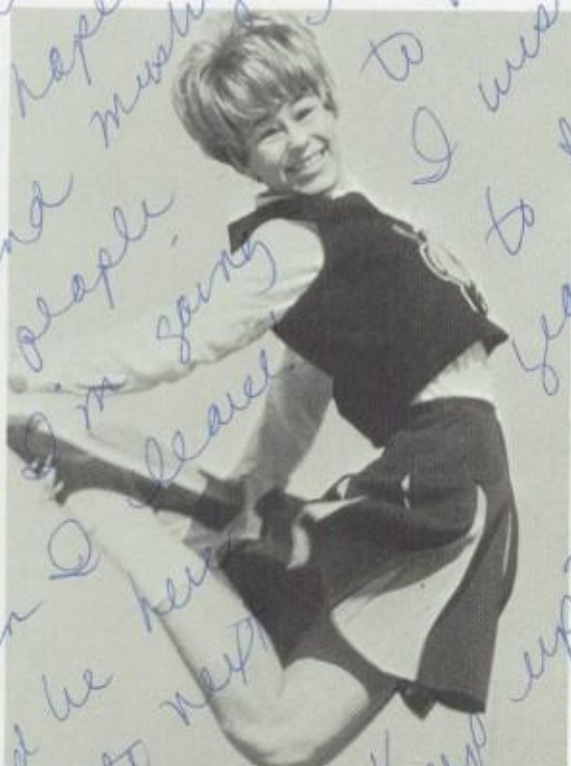

With only two returning lettermen, this year's gymnastic success relied heavily on the progress of sophomores and juniors. A lack of depth required Coach Smith to develop a well balanced team. Parallel bars and trampoline were the strong events with returning lettermen Scott Stephens and Ron Albright participating. With strong potential, next year's team shows signs of regaining gymnastic supremacy.

Parallel bars challenge senior letterman Scott Stephens.

After designing their new uniforms, the cheerleaders were outfitted to cheer the Spartan teams through numerous victories. Their year began during the summer with a week-long trip to Dallas, Texas, where they attended the National Cheerleaders Association clinic at Southern Methodist University. Here they received an Honorable Mention ribbon and were awarded the Spirit Stick for the squad showing the most pep and enthusiasm. At home, the cheerleaders proved their spirit through the many rallies and support of all athletic contests. The patriotic jeep trimmed in brown and gold was the cheerleaders' favorite mode of transportation to and from all sports activities.

T.J.'s pom-pom girls for "Sports, '65-'66," originated a number of unique jazz dances for T.J. games and rallies. This improvement over previous years was possible due to an increase in the number of "pom-pommers" and the girls' inexhaustible energy. At the beginning of the year, the pom poms were swinging at least two hours a day for six days a week. Their unusual formations, new uniforms, and fluffy pom-poms delighted both football and basketball fans throughout the year.

Seventh Graders Discover,

On the first day of school, the newly-assembled Class of '71 shyly followed their schedule of challenging classes in a large, sometimes-frightening school. However, the shyness was not permanent. Under the fine leadership of their officers they began to make new friends and take an active part in the activities of the Junior High. Perhaps their most successful project was the class party.

Now, at the end of an exciting year, sophisticated eighth graders have emerged from shy "scrubs."

Bill Brinton and Leslie Traver discuss Student Council projects with Junior High Head Girl Cathy Lines.

Officers Lead Class To Victory

As the school year began, members of the class of 1970 returned to Thomas Jefferson with a greater sense of importance. Noted for their enthusiasm and spirit, the eighth graders supported all class and school activities. It soon became evident the class was united as they began the year with a joint eighth grade-junior victory in the United Way Drive. Another highlight of the year was the eighth grade party.

As they strived to achieve, alone and together, the Class of 1970 soon discovered that with their new status came growth, maturity, and responsibility.

Eighth grade officers work diligently with Mr. Keables, class sponsor, on many projects such as stringing and selling pep cards.

Freshmen

Barbie Kortz
Ninth Grade Girl President

Freshmen began the year with the spirit that Junior High leaders should possess and inculcated this enthusiasm into all their social and scholastic activities. Along with the Sophomores, the Freshmen placed second in the United Way Drive. The class party in January and the traditional continuation talent show and dance were highly supported. Ninth graders were able to attend their first night-dance sponsored by the Aristocrat in May.

At the end of the year Freshmen were eager to leave behind the age of "being too old and yet too young." They gradually assumed new privileges and responsibilities and were ready to step into their position as Sophomores.

Comments made by the council members often draw different responses from officers, Kristy Gunning and Bob Pringle.

Bob Pringle demonstrates how to make a cloud, just part of the preparations for "Schuss," the sophomore dance.

Enthusiasm seemed to be the characteristic identifier of this year's Sophomore Class. Entering in anything and everything with eagerness and profuse energy, the Sophs were a supporting part of the Senior High, participating in all activities and joining a variety of clubs. Night dances and Color day competition were two events which the Sophomores had awaited excitedly, and this year provided their prime opportunity.

Class Council members planned a dance "Schuss," held in January around a ski theme. Tickets in the shape of tow tickets added an atmosphere to the dance preparations.

As Sophomores, the class met new challenges and responsibilities which inspired them to anticipate greater achievement. Varsity teams, club offices, and the perpetuation of an established tradition await the spirited hands of Sophomores as they progress to their senior year.

Class sponsor Miss Hess, working with the sophomore officers, reaches for a map of the good-will districts.

Juniors Win

This year's Junior class has been the most successful ever. Highlighting the year was the winning of Homecoming. The Junior float captured the first place trophy for the first time in TJ's history. Juniors have also played a great part in all of our athletic contests, making this the most rewarding period of achievement the school has ever experienced. Besides excelling in sports, the Junior dance "Fever" showed the enthusiasm and work needed for the success of any accomplishment.

This year, instead of electing representatives from English classes, the officers decided to have interested individuals sign up for the committee they wanted to work on.

All of the officers and the class sponsor, Mr. John Miles, worked diligently to make this year as fulfilling as it was.

Class workers show all the work needed to produce a winning Homecoming float like "Branded."

Terry O'Connell and Tom Ponikiski work on a chemistry experiment for Mr. Rich.

*Mountbry,
Well big boy another year has just gone by, and you're just as dumb as you were the year before, if that's possible. Well anyway, still a pretty fair basketballer, that's getting good luck next year in b. ball and have this summer. Terry*

*Steve,
That's perfectly OK about the dance. I thought you had forgotten about it. Perhaps next year.
You're a great basketball player and I watched you constantly during the season. Keep up the good work! I hope I can get to know you better next year-- we'd have a blast! Good luck (as if you need it)!

A Beginning, An End . . . Six Years Of Tradition

"The best class ever at T.J." is a recurring term applied annually to the Senior Class. The class of '66 has attracted this phrase too, but, while known for achievement and accomplishment, it was renowned as the first class to complete all six grades at Thomas Jefferson. This year's Seniors have actively participated in the development of school traditions. From drafting a constitution to accepting the leadership of T.J., the reputation and image that Thomas Jefferson has attained can be greatly attributed to the ability and enthusiasm of the Senior Class of 1966.

A new boy at school is a rarity, especially at Thomas Jefferson. Tall, good-looking, friendly, King Eros, arrived at the outset of his sophomore year to begin a career of achievement and athletic endeavor. Fred Brechtel, with his shy, courteous and conscientious mannerisms, quickly became orientated to Thomas Jefferson after moving here from Canada. He established his fame by playing half-back on the Spartan football team and by being a strong member of the Denver University Junior Pioneers hockey team. Knowledge was of prime importance to Fred, and he was consistent in receiving high grades. Membership in Honor Society, Key Club, and "D" Club can also be added to his name as we recognize him in the Aristocrat Hall of Fame.

Barby Peonio, shy and timid at first introduction, is as strong an individual as can be found anywhere in the halls of Thomas Jefferson. She was constantly aware of the merits of her many friends, and took a personal interest in the welfare of each. Barby's even temper established unrestrained bonds between herself and others and freely enabled sincerity and kindness to show. As Lt. Col. of the 1966 Honorary Cadets, Barby Peonio did an outstanding job. One of her honors was being chosen as a finalist in the Sojourners speech contest. She was also a member of National Honor Society, and N.F.L. in her sophomore year. Barby was always on the ball and offered much to the class of 1966.

Having enormous talent and the ability to put it to good use, Paula Bernstein has excelled in many areas. Music, however, has been her major interest. Ever since the 7th grade Paula has played the viola for the T.J. orchestra, and has achieved honors for playing with the All-City, All-State Concert Orchestras for 3 years in high school. To further develop her talent, she studied music at Pennsylvania State University in the summer after her sophomore year. Paula also gained recognition in academics and citizenship. She has been a member of National Honor Society for two years and has served as a Prefect in her senior year. In addition, her exemplary character is irreproachable, as stated by one of her peers, "She is undoubtedly the person with the strongest moral values of anyone I know, and these are based on her own reflections and mature insight."

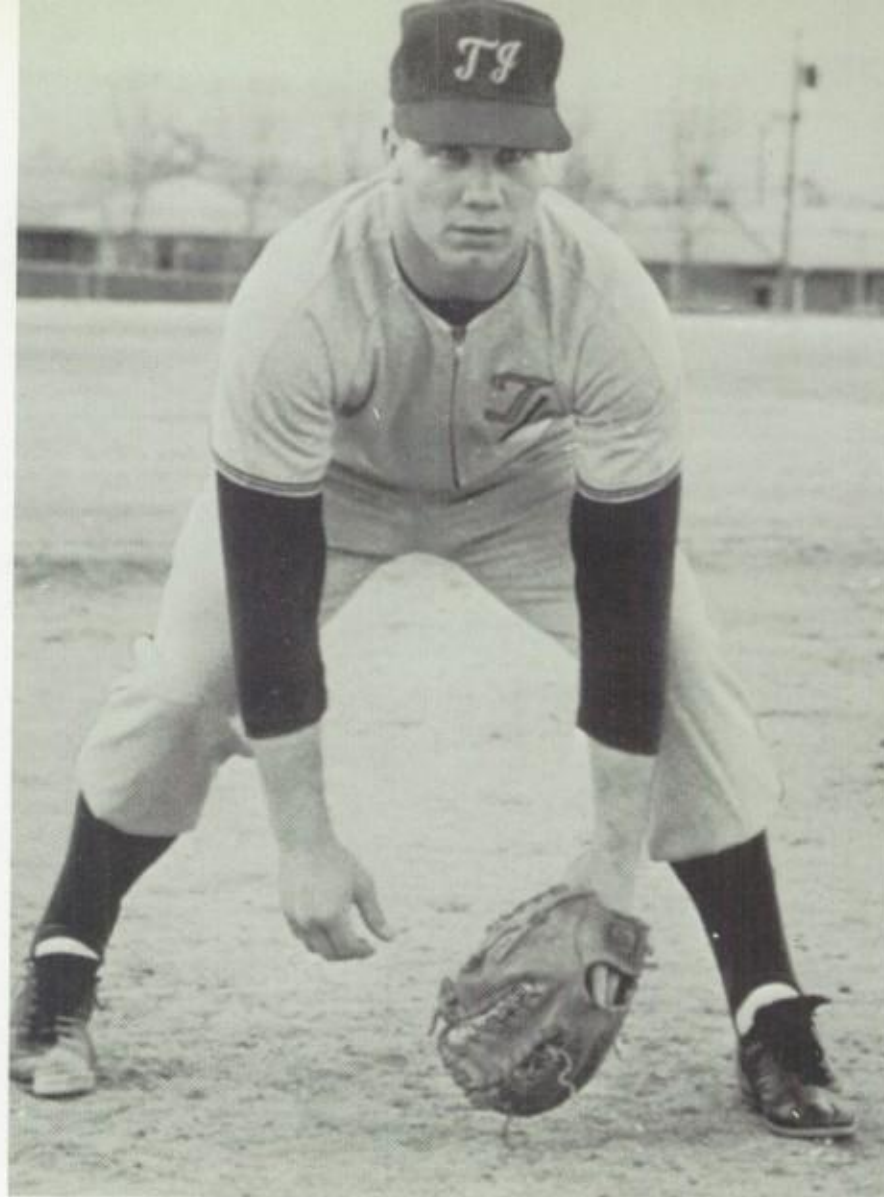

Carol Goldman was not admired solely for her constant supply of controversial ideas, but also because she believed in these ideas and had the knowledge to support them. As editorial editor of the Journal staff, she proved herself sincere, direct, and sometimes outspoken. Showing interest in all school activities, Carol was secretary of Young Dems and an active participant in Atherfies and Pep Club. It can be said that Carol Goldman was a participant in the establishment of moral conscience at Thomas Jefferson.

Sincere and honest, Cathy Kaplan will always be remembered at T.J. Her participation in Honor Society, Atherfies, and Pep Club, along with a high grade point average made her respected by all. Since junior high, Cathy has been a working part of her class. In 9th grade she was elected Girl President, and as a sophomore began the first of 3 active years on the Aristocrat staff. Her capabilities and talents were further recognized when she was selected as an American Field Service exchange student to Sao Paulo, Brazil, for the summer preceding her senior year. Combining an effervescent personality and a sensitive nature, Cathy Kaplan was a true friend and an integral part of the class of '66.

Through victory and defeat, John Humphrey and his jeep were always behind the class of '66. John transferred from East in his junior year and immediately established himself at T.J. Sacrificing study time, he was a tireless worker on all class activities, including homecoming floats and Goodwill drives. Tall and comical, John was a natural for the part of Donald in the class play, "You Can't Take It With You." In his senior year he was host to T.J.'s exchange student and was a principal influence in the Americanization of Marco. Music was another of John's major interests. He participated in the Concert Choir, the Spartones, and the All-City and All-State Choirs. John's jeep was also musically inclined; with its variety of horns it could be heard coming for miles.

Cheerful and friendly, Gay Ligon was known by many and liked and respected by everyone she knew. Where she found the time to fulfill her many obligations will forever remain her secret. Gay participated in many activities, both in and out of school, but she did them all well, with completeness and accuracy. She was an Honorary Cadet, a Prefect, a member of Honor Society and F.T.A., and in her senior year played the female lead in the class play. Outside of school, Gay was busy, playing the piano, knitting, and participating in church youth groups. Gay Ligon was a girl of many talents, and with her clever ingenuity she utilized them all.

Everybody knew Ron McRae. His constant clowning, outstanding capability in athletics, and industrious class and school services made him a prominent figure at T.J. As co-captain of the football team, Ron was respected and admired by team mates as well as opponents. Varsity football and baseball portrayed his strong determination and desire to win, but he was one of the best "sports" in the Class of '66. Participating in Key Club for three years qualified Ron's senior presidency, and also his election to D-Club sgt.-at-arms. He was a constant spark in the motivation of this year's senior class and was well-liked for his candid sincerity.

Always involved in a service project, Sherry Jessop was a definite asset to her class and school. As president of Pep Club, she undertook the seemingly endless tasks of the Spartan Spirits. As Sophomore Vice-president Sherry devoted her "all" to the development of class unity and spirit. She also contributed to the advancement of T.J. through Prefecting. Her membership in Honorary Cadets and nomination for the D.A.R. award are both testimonials of her outstanding citizenship. Members of the class of '66 will always remember Sherry Jessop as a driving leader and a willing worker.

The fact that school "spirit" has more facets than superficial surface participation was exemplified by Ann Roebuck. Ann was one of the most respected, responsible individuals at T.J. She climaxed three years of Journal Staff membership by becoming editor. Besides this full-time activity, Ann was a three year member of National Honor Society and the club's secretary in her junior year. The summer before her senior year she was selected to attend the Behavioral Psychology Institute at Cornell University. Ann not only excelled academically, but she also participated in Junior Escorts, Folksong Club, and badpoles. The Aristocrat Staff is proud that Thomas Jefferson has a student like Ann Roebuck to honor in the Hall of Fame.

Larry Hockstad was one of those admired and envied people who always accomplished the seemingly impossible. Scoring two perfect "eight hundreds" in math and chemistry Achievement Tests, and maintaining a 3.9 grade average, he was a National Merit Semifinalist and president of Honor Society. But Larry's list of activities did not end here. He was a member of Bridge Club, Young Dems, Concert Band, and the All-City orchestra. Recognized for his academic achievements, Larry was an NCTE award nominee and recipient of the Brown University Book Award in his junior year; the Colorado Society of Engineers selected him as the outstanding math and science student at Thomas Jefferson. Larry's close contemporaries recognize him as a brilliant student, a witty commentator, and a future leader.

As a friend and class worker, Jane Stubbs could not be surpassed. Her distinct, yet reserved personality added to her poise and delicate character. Jane's contributions to the school were many and distinguished as was her eagerness to help and understand people. While maintaining a high grade point average, Jane endeavored to participate in and improve the school community. She served as Atherfies treasurer and a reporter on the Journal in her senior year. As a leader, Junior class vice-president suited Jane's character as she helped lead the juniors to great success. We will never forget the soft radiance of Miss Jane Stubbs as she was crowned Aristocrat Queen in her sophomore year. Thomas Jefferson will look forward to acquiring a student that is as devoted and as sensitive an individual as Jane.

Dependable and cooperative, John Meyer was sincerely appreciated by all who worked with him. The Aristocrat members were deeply indebted to John, a Journal photographer, for his constant willingness to help, despite rivalries between the two staffs. His leading performance in the Senior Class Play will long be remembered. From the beginning of play practice, he seemed to have a natural talent for acting. John's high grade point average and contribution to the school as a Prefect completed the excellent record he acquired during his years at T.J.

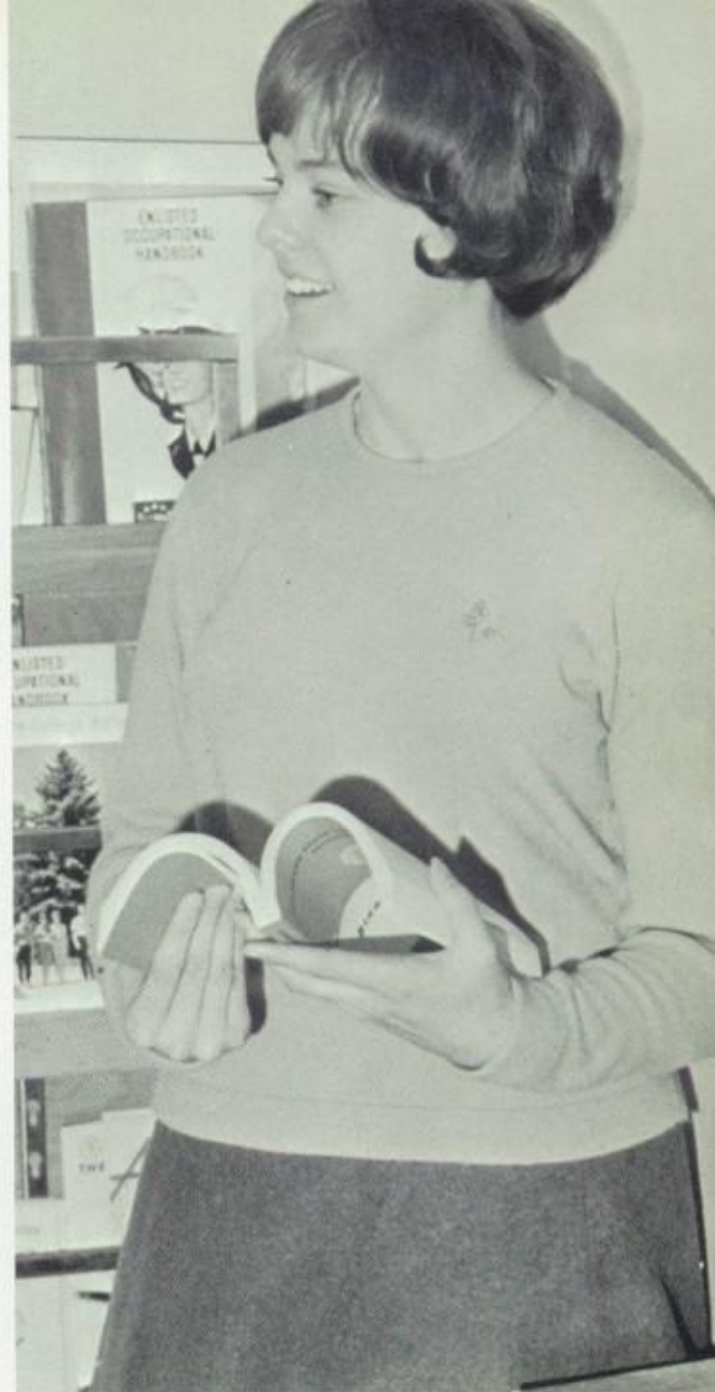

Libbie Booren—a spark of vitality and initiative—upheld Spartan enthusiasm and ideals throughout her six active years at T.J. Known as “Lib” to almost everyone, she capped her activities by editing the '66 Aristocrat. Senior high Ski Club business manager and president of the junior high division, Libbie ably assisted in establishing meaningful tradition at Thomas Jefferson. Maintaining a 3.8 grade point average showed that Lib was an intelligent addition to her class, and she always exhibited sensitive concern for class accomplishment.

Fred Lindquist's amiable character and understanding nature won him recognition in the school as well as in the community. Serving as Senior Class President, Fred displayed the leadership necessary to carry his class through Goodwill, Senior Prom and graduation. Junior Representative and National Honor Society, Aristocrat Staff and Pre-Med Club, occupied much of Fred's time for three years, but he still enjoyed working on the track team. Charter formation of the J.B.'s and Boys' State Representative completed Fred's activities. Fred's name will be among those most remembered for outstanding leadership and service at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Marco Alexio, American Field Service student from Brazil, helped T.J. students gain insight into the Brazilian culture and way of thinking. Although serious, Marco was sometimes called the "Brazilian Nut." His sense of humor was an integral part of the nostalgic memories seniors and underclassmen will retain of the 1965-66 school year. Marco served on Student Council, participating in their drives and sales and speaking in the Brotherhood Assembly. He also was an entry in the Pike Peak Invitational Speech Meet in Colorado Springs. Outside of school, Marco was involved in community activities, speaking at luncheons and attending conferences all over Colorado. Besides displaying the differences in cultures, however, Marco Antonio evidenced the similarities between people all over the world.

Some individuals say little and do lots—such an individual is Judy Reese. Her helpful suggestions in a subdued, yet impressive manner, encourage immediate action. Characterized by her enthusiastic smile possessing a desire to perform diligently, Judy was Corresponding Secretary of the Denver Mayor's Youth Council, President of Tri-Hi-Y, and a member of Honor Society and Pep Club. She maintained a high scholastic standing while incorporating leadership traits into her rigorous schedule. These attributes and abilities won her the LaSertoma Leadership Award. Judy combined sincerity, humility, leadership, and citizenship to create a model well worth following.

Bruce Steinke's pun—ishment was enough to kill anyone, and yet he will always be remembered for his sensational sense of humor and terrific management of words. Intelligence was a realm in which Bruce truly excelled, receiving 800's on both the Chemistry and Intensive Math Achievements. His unique personality affected all, and Bruce's presence lightened any activity. As Sr. Representative Bruce did much to incite eagerness and spirit for the class. From float building to Young Dems, Bruce was constantly in the center of the bustling high school movement. Yet, community participation also found its way to Bruce's hand, as exemplified by his joint chartership of the Jaybees of Colorado. Perhaps his most enjoyable contribution was to the Schmaltz Savages, a club which completed his fine record of activeness and rounded his high school life.

Karleen Ray has a contagious laugh and a spirited nature which penetrated those around her. Two years of cheerleading, culminated her active years at Thomas Jefferson where she was also the first Seventh Grade President and Junior High Head Girl. Karleen's willingness to serve her class and school was distinctly illustrated through service in Atherfies, and the Aristocrat Staff for four years. She was elected to National Honor Society and Head Cheerleader in her senior year. T.J. will never forget the energetic smile and bouncy character which became the trademark of Miss Karleen Ray.

Vicki DeShon's personality is reflected in her bouncy walk. No one could mistake her coming up the hall! Guiding the Senior class as its vice-president, she was praised for her enthusiasm as a class worker. Vickie's spontaneous fervor incited much spirit in her class, and she could always be depended upon. Vicki added initiative to the Atherfies and further displayed leadership as Vice-President of Tadpoles. Elected to Honor Society as a senior, Vicki maintained outstanding grades despite demanding activities. Vicki DeShon's contributions will long be remembered in the halls of Thomas Jefferson.

Pat Jarrell's contribution to Thomas Jefferson has been in the field of sports. Much of our athletic success can be attributed to his participation. He has lettered in football three times and was chosen by the Denver Post as All-City, All-Metro end. The "jock" was also one of our stronger players in basketball and baseball. Being elected as co-captain of both the football and basketball teams, Pat was not only an outstanding player, but he also held the respect of his teammates. "L.A." will long be remembered as one of the best athletes Thomas Jefferson has yet produced.

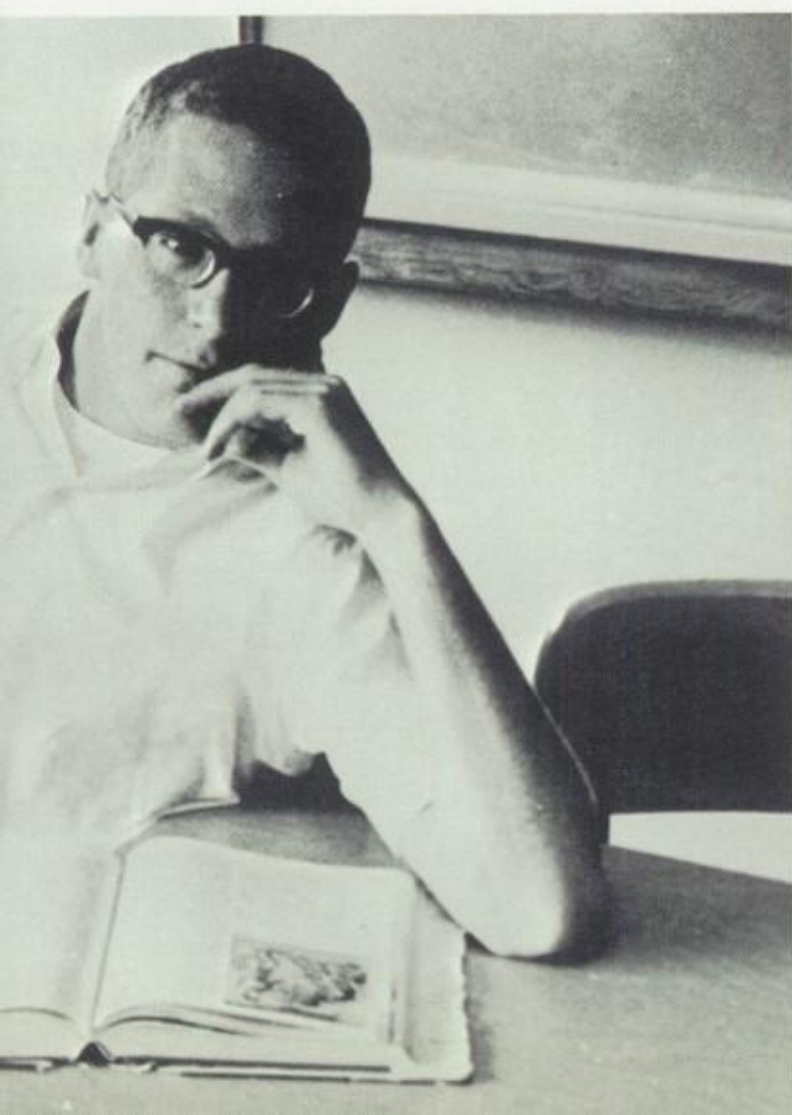

Long legs, a paint brush, and an unusual personality characterize Lorie Shapiro. As artist of the Class of '66, Lorie could always be found inking a poster, wiring a sculpture, or creating a long, thin painting. She could always be depended on for a last minute silk-screen for the Aristocrat Staff, on which she was artist for three years. Her other activities included National Honor Society and Atherfies. Yet all of her time-consuming activities did not restrain her studies, for Lorie graduated with a 3.6 average. Lorie Shapiro was an invaluable member of her class and her sense of humor will be missed.

Friendly to one and all, Susie Berardini was known as "Boozy" by most of the seniors. She was one of the most respected girls in her class, and she certainly deserved any and all praise afforded her. Susie's smile and personality were an inspiration to all. She consistently displayed an attitude of good citizenship and subsequently was the recipient of the D.A.R. award. Susie exhibited leadership as Senior Secretary and Junior Class Secretary. Atherfies and Pep Club occupied her spare minutes, yet she never hesitated to listen to a problem and help a friend. Susie Serardini deserves recognition in the Hall of Fame.

Hall of Fame . . . Have -

To a fine athlete whose phenomenal determination and diligence is sure to help T.J. to the state basketball championship, I very much respect you as a person and am proud to consider you a friend.

Allan Gray coupled fierce individualism with a sense of responsibility and the results were admirable. An integral part of the Journal Staff since his sophomore year, he contributed wit and a tone of intellectual maturity to every issue. He was characterized by his frank comments and the courage to voice his opinion on any topic. A staunch supporter of the Republican party, Allan served as president of TAR's, and he maintained an excellent grade point average as testified by his membership in Honor Society for three years. Not only did Allan achieve intellectually, but he also proved himself a driving athlete. Since seventh grade he has worked out with the track team and he was devoted to both track and cross country during his senior high years.

An enormous angel covering the floor of one's house is not an everyday occurrence—neither is a perpetual crowd of people, crepe-papering its frame. But Cathy Rudolph is one of these select few who was honored with such a nuisance, and she even managed to retain the friendly, conscientious, natural air which made her a likeable companion throughout her years at Thomas Jefferson. Cathy willingly became involved in all her class projects, from chairman of Senior prom to Goodwill collector. She was one of the original Prefects, an honor society member, a true servant of Atherfies, and a substantial contributor to the Student Council as Junior Class representative. Cathy's voice qualified her for membership in Concert Choir for two years, crowned by her presidency this year. Cathy Rudolph certainly affected her classmates and teachers with unreserved sincerity which shone wherever her smile appeared.

Not merely a passive spectator, Jim Stone cooperated wholeheartedly in everything he did, and his list of activities was long and impressive. He served his class as Sophomore President and proved himself to be an outstanding organizer and worker on numerous class projects. Well known for his contributions and support of school government, he was chosen as a representative to Boy's State. Jim served as business manager of the Aristocrat Staff, and a member of Pre-Med and Honor Society. As Vice president of the Denver Mayor's Youth Council, he was one of the principal founders of the Council's Youth Advisory Jury.

Captain of the swimming team and Vice-President of the first group of Prefects at Thomas Jefferson, Jim Graunke served his school in these two important capacities. He was respected throughout the school for his mannerly attitude toward his peers and teachers and admired for his stamina and outgoing personality. Playing the French Horn for three years in the Concert Band, he also managed to maintain a high grade point average and become a member of Honor Society. Jim was also a member of Bridge Club and "D" Club throughout his high school years.

As sophomores we tried and failed many times, but we didn't stop trying until the job was done. The sponsor repeatedly said, "impossible," but was patient and let us try anyway. As juniors we made mistakes, but our sponsor controlled his ulcers. We were over-anxious as seniors, but he subdued his impulse to scream.

Mr. Robert Smith was a straight "A" student in high school and attended college on a NROTC scholarship. At the outset of World War II, however, his senior year at college was interrupted and he joined the Marines. He also spent two summers on Science Foundation Grants at different universities.

Devoted to the Class of '66, Mr. Smith was the first to volunteer and the last to leave. He was sometimes the only one to do the job. The Aristocrat is proud to commemorate the senior class sponsor, Mr. Robert Smith, on behalf of a grateful and appreciative senior class.

Maintaining a Valedictorian's grade-point average through three years of high school is quite an accomplishment in itself, and yet, Debbie Valis was a vivacious spark in the activity and success of the Class of 1966. As Senior Class Secretary, Debbie recorded the events which marked the singularity of her class. Among the rest of her numerous activities was her election to National Honor Society as I.C.C. representative. She was also a Junior Dance Princess, and she energetically participated in Atherfies, Pep Club, German Club, and Junior Escorts. Her personality emanated in all her endeavors. Perhaps her greatest strength was in math, for which she won a National Science Foundation Scholarship to Kansas University in the summer of 1965. Debbie's personality will be remembered for her exciting sense of humor and warmth of spirit.
